MAN ENDS LIFE BY DROWNING IN WATER HOLE

Perry Grove, 45, Thornville, Found Dead in Excavation Near Osgood Plant

PATIENT AT SANATORIUM

Disappears After Asking Permission To Walk About Grounds

Verdict of suicide by drowning was given by County Coroner B D Os born of Waldo last night following the finding of the body of Perry Grove 45, of Thornville, in a water hole on the property of the Osgood Co late yesterday afternoon

The body was found about 5 15 o'clock by Walter Kumar, Smith st, and Carl Castle, 120 Evans st while they were hauling out from the site Grove had been missing from the Sawyer Sanatorium since 5 o'clock Thursday night, according to Dr Carl W Sawyer.

The hole in which Grove was found was shallow and contained only about 30 inches of water, according to Chief of Police James W. Thompson, who made an investigation last night To take his life, it was said, Grove probably had to hold himself under the water

Came Here Jan 31

Dr Sawyer's records revealed that Grove came to the sanitor on Jan. 31 of this year, suffering from mental depression following the death of a brother. He had made several attempts at suicide, but of late had seemed so much better, Dr Sawyer said that his relatives, visiting him last Saturday, decided to take him home this week-end

Grove asked his nurse, Thursday afternoon, if he might walk about the grounds. He was seen by one of the attendants at 5 o'clock on the grounds When he failed to report in at that time search was started and his relatives notified. The relatives came here yesterday afternoon, but believing that Grove had probably started for Thornville they were leaving the city when they saw a crowd gathering at the Osgood plant. Going to the scene they identified the body.

Grove, who was unmarried, is survived by three sisters. The body was removed to the Hess. Markert and Axe funeral home and was to be taken to Thornville today by Harry G Watson, a brother in-law.

Mike Mackavick, 40, of Barberton was arrested by police for investigation when he was found near the scene of the drowning. Following the investigation and verdict of Coroner Osborn, he was released today by Chief Thomp

DONAHEY NAMES BOARD TO PREPARE ARGUMENTS

Chiropractors Hope To Present Issue to Voters at Polls Next November

Columbus, June 25 - Appointment of a committee by Gov Vic Donahey to prepare arguments favoring indorsement by Ohio voters at the polls next November of an initiated measure providing for a separate state board to examine the license chiropractors, was announced today at the governor's office.

The committee, recommended by officials of the Ohio State Chiropractic Society, Inc., comprises Paul H. Strand, Youngstown, O; O. L. Brown, Akron; George D. Meeker, Cincinnati; Mary Jane Gast, Cleveland, and John H. Streb, Youngstown.

Argument to be prepared by this committee will appear in a pamphlet to be distributed among electors throughout the state by Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown, as provided for by law

A committee, to be recommended by physicians to prepare argument against the measure, is expected to be announced by the governor soon.

This measure was defeated during the recent session of the Ohio Legislature but its submission direct to Ohio voters next fall is provided for by the initiative and referendum sections of the Ohio Constitution

PARK DESTROYED

White City, Chicago, Burns With Loss of $250,000

Chicago, June 25—White City, Chicago's historic southside amusement park, was practically wiped out by fire early today. Herbert Byfield, president of the amusement company estimated the loss at $250,000. The blaze started near the illuminated central tower, and before the first fire apparatus had arrived the structure was a blazing torch. It created a stirring scene as it crashed to the ground. The tower was the principal loss.

COUPLE WED BY ACTING JUDGE

The first marriage ceremony by Acting Judge J. D Williamson was performed in the Marion Municipal Court early this afternoon when Miss Esther Stevenson of this city became the bride of James L. Peyton of Columbus.

Judge Williamson was sworn into office June 20 when Municipal Judge W. D. Martin was confined to his home because of the illness of his daughter.

SPOKESMEN FOR POWERS

United States Will Not Accept Anything Short of Parity With Great Britain

Official Announcement Constitutes American Answer to Demand Voiced at Geneva by W. C. Bridgeman; Gibson Given Orders To Reject All Other Demands

Washington June 25 The United States can not and will not accept anything short of absolute parity with Great Britain in the matter of auxiliary naval ships

This official announcement made here today on behalf of the government constitutes the American answer to the demand voiced at Geneva by W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the British admiralty, that Britain be accorded superior auxiliary naval tonnage over the United States

Ambassador Hugh S Gibson, who heads the American delegation at the Geneva conference, has been given positive instructions to reject any and all British demands for cruiser superiority

The manner in which today's announcement was made indicated clearly that the United States stands willing to let the Geneva conference go to the boards rather than accept any modification of the 5 5 naval ratio as between this country and Great Britain

GREAT BRITAIN ON VERGE OF VICTORY

Geneva, June 25—Great Britain appears to be on the verge of securing at least a partial victory of the tripartite conference here, by winning a decision on the question of capital ships

While Great Britain has refused to withdraw her proposals for the reduction of capital ship tonnage, the United States and Japan have both declared these suggestions to be outside the scope of the present conference

However Hugh Gibson, chief American delegate, made a statement to the press today, indicating that the capital ship proposals of Great Britain would be discussed in the present conference

No one wants to deny Great Britain the right to discuss capital ships here" said Gibson "How far we Americans will discuss capital ships or whether we will only state our position remains to be seen

"The British proposals have been referred to Washington and we are awaiting instructions"

WASHINGTON IS PLEASED BY LINDBERGH DECISION

Consider Air Transport Plans as Great Step Forward for Country

Washington, June 25 - The decision of Col Charles A Lindbergh to affiliate himself with a group of persons in commercial aviation in the promotion of national air transport line throughout the United States is hailed by government officials and aeronautic authorities here as marking a milestone in the development of passenger flying on this side of the Atlantic Aviation advocates here rejoice that the daring young trans atlantic flier has thrown the great influence of his world-wide acclaim into the national undertaking of matching the American commercial air fleet with that of the most advanced units of Europe.

Howard Coffin, president of the National Air Transport Corp and one of the country's trailblazers in commercial flying, will be one of Lindbergh's associates in the new venture, which probably will begin operations, "at an early date" under the corporate title of the existing company. National Air Transport is the largest airmail carrier in the country. Others interested in the project to ribbon the nation with the air highways for daily passenger service are Paul Henderson former assistant postmaster general and general manager of the national airplane interests; Casey Jones, one of the nation's most celebrated fliers, and the three St. Louis backers of the transatlantic flight which swept Lindbergh from his air mail drivers seat to the front ranks of business.

DAYTON PILOT INJURED WHEN AIRPLANE CRASHES

McKeesport, Pa., June 25—Pilot Clyde Emerick of Dayton, was seriously injured and a passenger named Gerber of Johnstown, Pa., escaped unhurt when an airplane crashed at Berris Flying Field here today.

The plane had just taken off and reached a height of a few hundred feet when the crash occurred. Emerick jumped and in doing so his head struck the propeller. It was feared his skull was fractured.

Witnesses said Gerber climbed from the wrecked plane uninjured

WEAVES FINAL STRANDS OF EVIDENCE IN CASE

Cleveland, June 25— Miss Evelyn Cohen, woman prosecutor, today was weaving the final strands in a net of circumstantial evidence by which the state hopes to convict Mrs. Helen Glazer of first degree murder, in connection with the shooting of Ida Glazer, 28-year-old bride of the accused woman's former husband.

The state probably will not rest its case before Monday, but most of the important testimony will be completed today. Handwriting experts testified that the "suicide note" found beside the dead wife's body [illegible]

Orville Straub, 33, Upper Sandusky, Strangled to Death Under Truck

COMPANION ESCAPES

Portion of Car Rests on Man's Neck, Shutting Off Breath

Orville Straub 33, of Upper Sandusky late yesterday afternoon was the victim of one of the most unusual of fatal traffic accidents recorded in the annals of Marion County

While Straub was killed his companion, Foster Shumaker of Upper Sandusky, escaped with but minor injuries.

When the Ford truck in which the two were riding struck a deep rut and overturned on the Upper Sandusky Big Island pk near Morral Straub was pinned beneath the car with a portion of the body resting on his neck Shumaker worked madly and unsuccessfully to extricate him When aid reached the scene strangulation had taken full effect and Straub was dead

Dr W H Fisher Morral was summoned to the scene and made test examination of the body Coroner B D Osborn Waldo investigated the case last night and returned a verdict of accidental death by strangulation Examination showed that Straub had also sustained skull fractures at the temple and back of the left ear

Victim Driving

Shumaker who owned the car stated that Straub was driving at the time of the accident They left the Sweet & Straub Meat Market at Morral about 2 o'clock he said and were returning

When the accident occurred the machine was headed south and after turning over was headed north with the top smashed flat to the body

Straubs body was taken to the Bringman Mortuary at Upper Sandusky to be prepared for burial

The widow Clara Payne Straub a three year old daughter Evelyn the mother, Mrs Sage Carr Carey Three brothers Hershel and Forbes Carey and Gail Lamy survive A son died in infancy

Straub was familiarly known as Benny He formerly served as night policeman at Upper Sandusky His death brings the traffic toll at Upper Sandusky to three for the present week and eight since the middle of last February.

YARDMEN GET INCREASE OTHERS TURNED DOWN

Finding Announced by Federal Mediation Board After Protracted Hearings

Chicago June 25 The federal mediation board today turned down the 12½ per cent wage increase sought by the brotherhoods of railway trainmen and conductors on 55 western railroads but granted the 7½ per cent increase demanded by yardmen

The finding was announced following protracted hearings by the board after railroad officials and the employes were unable to reach an agreement at private conferences

The brotherhoods sought the increase after the board granted payroll boosts to workers on eastern and southern zone railroads

The increase was made retractive to March 1 last.

Among those denied increased pay in addition to conductors and trainmen were baggagemen, firemen and brakemen.

COLUMBUS GOLFER IN LEAD OF OHIO TOURNEY

Shute One Up on Sinclair Dean at Ninth Hole of Final Match

Dayton, June 25 - Deasmore Shute, youthful Columbus golfer, was one up on Sinclair Dean of Lima, at the ninth hole of their 36-hole final match for the amateur championship here today.

The cards: Shute, out 455 444 324 —37.

Dean, out—440 444 434—37.

Dean started with a rush, taking a birdie on the first hole, a par five, while Shute was one over par, with a six.

Dean pressed his advantage and gained another hole at the second, with a par four to Shute's bunged five, but from then on the Columbus golfer hit his stride and quickly wrested the match. He lost holdes on the seventh and eighth, after he had regained one of the lost holes at the third with a par five.

BITUMINOUS MINERS TO GO ON STRIKE JULY 1

12,000 Men in Central Pennsylvania Field Will Be Affected

Philadelphia June 25 Preparations for a suspension of all operations at union bituminous mines in central Pennsylvania on July 1, went forward today, the miners and operators having failed in their effort to negotiate a new wage scale to replace the Jacksonville agreement.

About 12,000 men who have been working in the central Pennsylvania field under a temporary agreement which went into effect on April 1 when the Jacksonville agreement expires will be affected

Union delegates voted down the operators proposal for a 15 to 20 per cent reduction in wages and the joint conference in session since June 21, was adjourned late yesterday Both sides claimed they did their best to avert a suspension.

INITIAL STEPS TAKEN TO BAN CROSSINGS HERE

Division Highway Engineer Asks Cooperation of Marion County Commissioners

PROGRAM STATE WIDE

At Least One Danger Point To Be Removed Next Year, Present Plan

First steps toward elimination of dangerous grade crossings in Marion County, some of which have records showing them to be veritable death traps, have been taken by Grover C. Snyder, division engineer of the state highway department, who has formally requested the county commissioners to co-operate in the project.

Snyder recently received a communication from the state department informing him that preliminary plans for the crossing elimination program proposed for the entire state have been formulated and instructing him to confer with the commissioners regarding the work in Marion County.

$1,000,000 Provided

A fund of $1,000,000 has been appropriated to finance the work during the next two years and Marion County is scheduled to share in its distribution, the plan being to eliminate at least one grade crossing in this county next year

At a recent conference with the commissioners, Snyder requested that the county share the expense. The commissioners indicated today, however, that this request may not be granted as they are of the opinion that under provisions of the law relating to crossing elimination, the county is not required to pay any of the cost.

The law provides, the commissioners state, that half of the expense shall be paid by the state and the other half by the railway companies.

Unable To Agree

Another point on which there is no agreement between the state and county rests on the question of what crossing shall be the first to be eliminated.

The state's proposal is to have the first work done at the mud pike crossing five miles east of the city, which has been the scene of a number of fatalities This crossing is located at the point where the Harding Highway turns east to Caledonia.

County officials are of the opinion that this is by no means the most dangerous crossing in the county. Since opening of the Harding Highway east at the point, most of the traffic has been diverted from the crossing, it is claimed.

Favor Pennsylvania

The commissioners are in favor of selecting either the Pennsylvania railway crossing on the Prospect-pk, a short distance southwest of the city, or the Main st crossing of the Pennsylvania a short distance south of Crystal Lake Park. Their preference is the Prospect pk crossing, as records show that this has been the scene of the largest number of fatalities during the last few years A mother and two children were killed when their auto was struck by a train there several weeks ago.

Before taking final action, the commissioners expect to take the matter up in conference with officials of the Marion Auto Club, the Chamber of Commerce and possibly other organizations

Plans for the work will not be made until after these preliminary negotiations are completed It will then be decided whether underground or overhead crossings are to be built. County Surveyor Leavens is of the opinion that overhead construction will be the most feasible.

This preliminary discussion is the start of a movement which is expected to result eventually in practically every dangerous grade crossing in the state being eliminated. The program was made possible through adoption of legislation at the last session of the general assembly, the plan being to appropriate sufficient funds every two years to finance the work.

MUTINY OF PRISONERS IN COAL MINE AT END

Rebel Prisoners None Worse Off For Their 77-Hour Seige Underground

Lansing, Kan., June 25 — The mutiny of 328 convict coal miners, who had barricaded themselves in the Kansas Penitentiary coal mine here, was at an end today and the rebel miners are little the worse for their experience, despite the 77-hour siege underground

The mutiny ended last night after a fierce battle among the miners, 50 of them holding out for a continuation of the "strike" The 50 "die-hards" were overpowered by their fellow convicts and brought to the surface where the entire troop was taken in charge by guards.

The men had not suffered from their self-imposed incarceration since Tuesday noon.

America Ready to Wing Way Toward Paris at Moment's Notice

AIRPLANE AGAIN IS DELAYED BY SUDDEN STORM

People Swarm Roosevelt Field as Flight Preparations Are Made

Roosevelt Field, Mineola, N. Y., June 24—Perched proudly on an incline leading to a long runway here today is the giant silver-bodied, gold-winged monoplane, America, ready to wing its way toward Paris at a moment's notice.

It was to have flown at dawn this morning, but at the eleventh hour, after final preparations had been made, the hop-off was postponed indefinitely because a storm suddenly burst over the coast of Newfoundland.

Commander Richard E. Byrd and the three men who will make the flight with him were deeply disappointed, and so were several thousand persons who swarmed over Roosevelt Field eager to witness the start of the epochal expedition.

Not Today, Belief

"I thought sure we were going this time," said Byrd, who is fretting over the repeated delays. "I hope it won't be long before we do go. And we'll go the moment the weatherman gives us the word that conditions are right."

But the weatherman who is advising Byrd does not think the America can take off today. He is James H. Kimball, United States weather bureau meteorologist. It was Kimball's report shortly after midnight that prompted Byrd to delay the hop-off.

"They certainly will not be able to go today, and Saturday is too far away to make a prediction," was the pessimistic comment of Kimball.

It was a night of excitement at the hangar. Throughout the evening automobiles came in droves with persons eager to see the take-off. Several thousand persons swarmed over the field as the America was wheeled from its hangar and taxied three-quarters of a mile to the incline, giving rise to the belief that the long-awaited hop-off was imminent.

Goes for Sleep

Commander Byrd, after a final conference with Anthony Fokker, designer of the plane, had departed for the Garden City Hotel to get a few hours' sleep before getting away on the transatlantic flight, and all around the hangar there was a tenseness that has not hitherto prevailed.

Telegraph instruments beat out a steady staccato and reporters by the dozen pounded away energetically at typewriters.

Fifty-eight uniformed policemen stood guard near the hangar, keeping the crowd beyond ropped off spaces. The spectators, however, were orderly.

Precisely at 8:10 p. m. the America was wheeled along a narrow railway in the hangar to a position directly in front of the hangar where it was jacked up and weighed. The beam tipped at close to 14,500 pounds.

Taxied Across Field

This procedure was supervised by Bert Acosta, who will pilot the plane. He was assisted by T. Harold Kinkade, expert on motors who previously had put his O K on the three motors of the America.

Then, with policemen forming a semicircle about it, the black nose of the plane was turned south in the direction of the incline from which the take-off was to be made.

Acosta climbed into the cockpit and the plane was taxied across the field under its own power. It moved slowly in the dusk of the dawnings night and was followed by about 1,000 men, women and children. The plane stopped in front of a 50-foot dirt incline. Ropes were stretched for a hundred yards on both sides at the incline to keep the crowd back.

Motion picture cameras clicked and flashlights popped as the American drew up in front of the incline.

Food Supplies Ready

Food supplies were then brought to the plane. Tony Argan, Hempstead restauranteur who supplied the Chamberlin-Levine expedition, came rushing across the field in a car with two roast chickens, 10 cheese and turkey sandwiches, three quarts of coffee and two quarts of tea.

As darkness fell the field was completely encircled by glaring automobile lights. Cars were parked in a circumference of four or five miles and more automobiles arrived steadily.

Without warning, at 9:45 p. m., a gale blew up over the field, followed almost immediately by a drenching rain. The crowd scurried for cover. The only place of refuge except automobiles within reaching distance was the brightly lighted hangar, three-quarters of a mile away and the crowd made for it. Lightning accompanied the storm and in the excitement several women fainted according to the police and others lay prone on the ground.

There was another flash of lightning and the lights in the hangar went out. Reporters and telegraph operators were forced to work by the lights of matches and candles. Men and women who had no credentials to enter the hangar rushed through the ropes and the police had their hands full beating them back.

Message from Byrd

For a few minutes there seemed to be a possibility that the plane would be blown over. To prevent such a disaster, the plane was lashed by ropes to Kinkade's car. Kinkade started his automobile and pulled in the opposite direction from which the wind was blowing. This kept the plane upright until the storm blew over, in about 20 minutes. The indicator on Kinkade's car registered 45 miles an hour.

When the storm abated people emerged from their cars and soon the field was again alive with spectators.

Shortly after 11 o'clock the plane was pulled up the incline by a tractor.

Then, shortly after midnight, the telephone in the hangar rang. A newspaperman answered it.

"This is Byrd," said the voice on the wire. "The hop-off has been postponed. Yes, the same old reason, a storm—this time over Newfoundland."

There are 55 blind persons on the pension list for this quarter and payments for the three-month period will total $1,158. Practically all sections of the county are represented in the list, although a majority of the pensioners reside in the city of Marion.

Allowance Range

The largest quarterly allowance is $37.50 and the smallest $12. The pensions are proportioned according to the needs of the pensioners, their health and family connections being taken into consideration.

The number of blind persons on the list has shown little change in recent years in spite of the steady increase in population of the county, records show. Several pensioners died during the last few years and new applications granted has kept the list at about the same figure. Last year blind pension payments in the county totaled $4,487.44.

The fund is in charge of the county commissioners, who act upon all applications. Quarterly payments are made on Jan. 1, Apr. 1, July 1 and Oct. 1.

NOTIFIED OF ESCAPE

Local police this morning were notified of the escape from the State Hospital at Toledo, of Levi Williams, 45, who is described as being "small, rugged and dirty." The communication also stated that Williams would probably be found at a telegraph office.

FINDLAY YOUTH FINED FOR DRIVING INTOXICATED

MAN ENDS LIFE BY DROWNING IN WATER HOLE

Perry Grove, 45, Thornville, Found Dead in Excavation Near Osgood Plant

PATIENT AT SANATORIUM

Disappears After Asking Permission To Walk About Grounds

Verdict of suicide by drowning was given by County Coroner B. D. Osborn of Waldo last night following the finding of the body of Perry Grove, 45, of Thornville, in a water hole on the property of the Osgood Co late yesterday afternoon.

The body was found about 5:15 o'clock by Walter Kerner, Smith st, and Carl Castle, 130 Evansord, while they were hauling out from the site. Grove had been missing from the Sawyer Sanatorium since 5 o'clock Thursday night, according to Dr. Carl W. Sawyer.

The hole in which Grove was found was shallow and contained only about 10 inches of water, according to Chief of Police James W. Thompson, who made an investigation last night. To take his life, it was said, Grove probably had to hold himself under the water.

Came Here Jan. 31

Dr. Sawyer's records revealed that Grove came to the sanatorium Jan. 31 of this year, suffering from mental depression following the death of a brother. He had made several attempts at suicide, but of late had seemed so much better, Dr. Sawyer said that his relatives, visiting him last Saturday, decided to take him home this week-end.

Grove asked his nurse, Thursday afternoon, if he might walk about the grounds. He was seen by one of the attendants at 5 o'clock on the grounds. When he failed to report in at that time search was started and his relatives notified. The relatives came here yesterday afternoon, but believing that Grove had probably started for Thornville they were leaving the city when they saw a crowd gathering at the Osgood plant. Going to the scene they identified the body.

Grove, who was unmarried, is survived by three sisters. The body was removed to the Hess, Markert and Axe funeral home and was to be taken to Thornville today by Harry G. Watson, a brother-in-law.

Mike Mickavick, 40, of Barberton, was arrested by police for investigation when he was found near the scene of the drowning. Following the investigation and verdict of Coroner Osborn, he was released today by Chief Thompson.

DONAHEY NAMES BOARD TO PREPARE ARGUMENTS

Chiropractors Hope To Present Issue to Voters at Polls Next November

Columbus, June 25—Appointment of a committee by Gov. Vic Donahey to prepare arguments favoring indorsement by Ohio voters at the polls next November of an initiated measure providing for a separate state board to examine the license chiropractors was announced today at the governor's office.

The committee, recommended by officials of the Ohio State Chiropractic Society, Inc., comprises Paul H. Strand, Youngstown, O.; O. L. Brown, Akron; George D. Mecker, Cincinnati; Mary Jane Gast, Cleveland, and John H. Streb, Youngstown.

Argument to be prepared by this committee will appear in a pamphlet to be distributed among electors throughout the state by Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown, as provided for by law.

A committee, to be recommended by physicians to prepare argument against the measure, is expected to be announced by the governor soon.

This measure was defeated during the recent session of the Ohio Legislature but its submission direct to Ohio voters next fall is provided for by the initiative and referendum sections of the Ohio Constitution.

PARK DESTROYED

White City, Chicago, Burns With Loss of $250,000

Chicago, June 25—White City, Chicago's historic southside amusement park, was practically wiped out by fire early today. Herbert Byfield, president of the amusement company, estimated the loss at $250,000. The blaze started near the illuminated central tower, and before the first fire apparatus had arrived the structure was a blazing torch. It created a stirring scene as it crashed to the ground. The tower was the principal loss.

COUPLE WED BY ACTING JUDGE

The first marriage ceremony by Acting Judge J. D. Williamson was performed in the Marion Municipal Court early this afternoon when Miss Esther Stevenson of this city became the bride of James L. Pryor of Columbus.

Judge Williamson was sworn into office June 20 when Municipal Judge W. D. Martin was confined to his home because of the illness of his daughter.

SPOKESMEN FOR POWERS

United States Will Not Accept Anything Short of Parity With Great Britain

Official Announcement Constitutes American Answer to Demand Voiced at Geneva by W. C. Bridgeman; Gibson Given Orders To Reject All Other Demands

Washington, June 25—The United States cannot and will not accept anything short of absolute parity with Great Britain in the matter of auxiliary naval ships."

This official announcement was made here today on behalf of the government, constitutes the American answer to the demand voiced at Geneva by W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the British admiralty, that Britain be accorded superior auxiliary naval tonnage over the United States.

Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, who heads the American delegation at the Geneva conference, has been given instructions to reject any and all British demands for cruiser superiority.

The manner in which today's announcement was made indicated clearly that the United States stands willing to let the Geneva conference go to the boards rather than accept any modification of the 5-5 naval ratio as between this country and Great Britain.

GREAT BRITAIN ON VERGE OF VICTORY

Geneva, June 25—Great Britain appears to be on the verge of securing at least a partial victory of the tri-partite conference here, by winning a discussion on the question of capital ships.

While Great Britain has refused to withdraw her proposals for the reduction of capital ship tonnage, the United States and Japan have both declared these suggestions to be outside the scope of the present conference.

However, Hugh Gibson, chief American delegate, made a statement to the press today, indicating that the capital ship proposals of Great Britain would be discussed in the present conference.

"No one wants to deny Great Britain the right to discuss capital ships here," said Gibson. "How far we Americans will discuss capital ships or whether we will only state our position remains to be seen.

"The British proposals have been referred to Washington and we are awaiting instructions."

WASHINGTON IS PLEASED BY LINDBERGH DECISION

Consider Air Transport Plans as Great Step Forward for Country

Washington, June 25—The decision of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to affiliate himself with a group of pioneers in commercial aviation in the promotion of national air transport lines throughout the United States is hailed by government officials and aeronautic interests here as marking a milestone in the development of passenger flying on this side of the Atlantic. Aviation advocates here rejoice that the daring young transatlantic flier has thrown the great influence of his worldwide fame into the national undertaking of matching the American commercial air fleet with that of the most advanced units of Europe.

Howard Coffin, president of the National Air Transport Corp. and one of the country's trailblazers in commercial flying, will be one of Lindbergh's associates in the new venture, which probably will begin operations "at an early date" under the corporate title of the existing company. National Air Transport is the largest airmail carrier in the country. Others interested in the project to ribbon the nation with the air highways for daily passenger service are Paul Henderson former assistant postmaster general and general manager of the national airplane interests; Casey Jones, one of the nation's most celebrated fliers, and the three St. Louis backers of the transatlantic flight which swept Lindbergh from his air mail drivers seat to the front ranks of business.

DAYTON PILOT INJURED WHEN AIRPLANE CRASHES

McKeesport, Pa., June 25—Pilot Clyde Emerick of Dayton, was seriously injured and a passenger named Gerber of Johnstown, Pa., escaped unhurt when an airplane crashed at Bettis Flying Field here today.

The plane had just taken off and reached a height of a few hundred feet when the crash occurred. Emerick jumped and in doing so his head struck the propeller. It was feared his skull was fractured.

Witnesses said Gerber climbed from the wrecked plane uninjured.

WEAVES FINAL STRANDS OF EVIDENCE IN CASE

Cleveland, June 25—Miss Evelyn Cohen, woman prosecutor, today was weaving the final strands in a net of circumstantial evidence by which the state hopes to convict Mrs. Helen Glazer of first degree murder, in connection with the shooting of Ida Glazer, 19-year-old bride of the accused woman's former husband.

The state probably will not rest its case before Monday, but most of the important testimony will be completed today. Handwriting experts yesterday testified that the "suicide note," found beside the dead girl's body bears much similarity to specimen notes which they had Mrs. Helen Glazer write for them.

ROGERS IS UNABLE TO WRITE ARTICLE

While Will Rogers, well known comedian and writer, of Beverly Hills, Cal., is recovering from an operation for gallstones in that city, readers of The Star must have patience during the absence of his weekly feature article, appearing regularly in Saturday issues.

Rogers' material is sent to The Star by mail and while at the present time he is writing, he was unable to write in time for today's publication. Barring unforeseen changes in his now improving condition, he will be back with his usual hilarity and fun-poking next Saturday.

ARMY PLANE BOUND FOR HAWAII GOES TO FRISCO

Lieutenants Maitland and Hegenberger Expect To Hop Off on June 29

San Diego, Cal., June 25—The big trimotored army Fokker monoplane other transpacific pilots now grooming which is expected to steal a march on for the San Francisco-Honolulu non-stop race, left Rockwell Field here at 9:30 a. m., today bound for the starting line on San Francisco Bay.

The Fokker carried Lieuts. Lester J. Maitland and Albert F. Hegenberger, who will pilot it on the westward attempt across the Pacific, and Bradley Jones and E. J. Rivers, civilian employes of the army air service who have been assisting the fliers in preparing the plane and its scientific navigational instruments.

The army plane expects to hop off for Hawaii by June 29.

FIVE BOYS ESCAPE

Toledo, June 25—Lucas County authorities today are searching for five boys who escaped from the juvenile detention home here last night by climbing a bedspread a rope from the third floor dormitory.

MAN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT NEAR MORRAL

Orville Straub, 33, Upper Sandusky, Strangled to Death Under Truck

COMPANION ESCAPES

Portion of Car Rests on Man's Neck, Shutting Off Breath

Orville Straub, 33, of Upper Sandusky, late yesterday afternoon was the victim of one of the most unusual of fatal traffic accidents recorded in the annals of Marion County.

While Straub was killed his companion, Foster Shumaker, of Upper Sandusky, escaped with but minor injuries.

When the Ford truck in which the two were riding struck a deep rut and overturned on the Upper Sandusky Big Island-pk near Morral Straub was pinned beneath the car with a portion of the body resting on his neck. Shumaker worked madly and unsuccessfully to extricate him. When aid reached the scene, strangulation had taken full effect and Straub was dead.

Dr. W. R. Taylor, Morral, was summoned to the scene and made first examination of the body. Coroner B. D. Osborn, Waldo, investigated the case last night and returned a verdict of accidental death by strangulation. Examination showed that Straub had also sustained skull fractures at the temple and back of the left ear.

Victim Driving

Shumaker, who owned the car, stated that Straub was driving at the time of the accident. They left the Sawyer & Straub Meat Market at Morral about 2 o'clock he said and were returning.

When the accident occurred the machine was headed south and after turning over was headed north with the top smashed flat to the body.

Straub's body was taken to the Bringman Mortuary at Upper Sandusky to be prepared for burial.

The widow, Clara Payne Straub, a three-year-old daughter, Eva; the mother, Mrs. Sage Carr Caves, three brothers, Hershel and Forbyce Caves and Gail Lima, survive. A sister died in infancy.

Straub was familiarly known as Benny. He formerly served as night policeman at Upper Sandusky. His death brings the traffic toll at Upper Sandusky to three for the present week and eight since the middle of last February.

YARDMEN GET INCREASE OTHERS TURNED DOWN

Finding Announced by Federal Mediation Board After Protracted Hearings

Chicago, June 25—The federal mediation board today turned down the 12½ per cent wage increase sought by the brotherhoods of railway trainmen and conductors on 55 western railroads but granted the 7½ per cent increase demanded by yardmen.

The finding was announced following protracted hearings by the board after railroad officials and the employes were unable to reach an agreement at private conferences.

The brotherhoods sought the increase after the board granted payroll boosts to workers on eastern and southern zone railroads.

The increase was made retroactive to March 1 last.

Among those denied increased pay in addition to conductors and trainmen were baggagemen, flagmen and brakemen.

COLUMBUS GOLFER IN LEAD OF OHIO TOURNEY

Shute One Up on Sinclair Dean at Ninth Hole of Final Match

Dayton, June 25—Denmore Shute, youthful Columbus golfer, was one up on Sinclair Dean of Lima, at the ninth hole of their 36-hole final match for the amateur championship here today.

The cards: Shute, out—555 444 354—37.

Dean, out—446 444 454—37.

Dean started with a rush, taking a birdie on the first hole, a par five, while Shute was one over par, with a six.

Dean pressed his advantage and gained another hole at the second, with a par four to Shute's buzzard five, but from then on the Columbus golfer hit his stride and quickly evened the match. He had birdies on the seventh and eighth, after he had regained one of the lost holes at the third with a par five.

100 MARINES ADDED

Strength of Legation Guard in Peking Increased to 450

Peking, June 25—One hundred United States Marines arrived here today increasing the strength of the American legation guard to 450 men—the largest in Pekings.

Carrying 1,000 marines with an aviation unit, the United States transport Chaumont left Shanghai today and will arrive at Tientsin in about three days. This will bring the American defense force in the north up to 3,000 marines and 500 infantrymen.

BEAUTY IS PHI BETA KAPPA

once again with the popular belief that beauty and brains do not mix has been exploded, for Miss Ellen Melick, of Elizabeth City, N. Corps of Officers Made Up Entirely From One Family Confers Masonic Degree

Unusual Ceremony Takes Place at Weekly Meeting of Marion Lodge, No. 70, F. & A. M., When Relatives Initiate James L. Knapp, Zanesville

An unusual ceremony without precedent in the annals of Marion Lodge No. 70, F. & A. M. and possibly any other Masonic organization in the state of Ohio took place at the weekly meeting of the local lodge last night when the master mason degree was conferred upon James Lincoln Knapp of Zanesville by a corps of officers made up entirely of members of the Knapp family.

As a result of the initiation four generations of the Knapp family are now represented in the membership records of Marion Lodge No. 70, starting with John R. Knapp great grandfather of the young man who received the master mason degree last night. John R. Knapp, was one of the pioneer members of Marion Lodge.

Officials in charge of conferring the degree last night were the candidate's grandfather James A. Knapp, his father, James W. Knapp and his uncle, George R. Knapp. Harry B. Scheff, Walter S. Gaffney and Frank M. Knapp of Marion, Frank P. Elliott, of Cleveland and Frank C. Hughs of Columbus.

Father Senior Warden

The ceremonies occupied the station of worshipful master and the father was senior warden. The uncles filled the following offices, in the order named, junior warden, secretary, senior deacon, junior deacon, senior steward and junior steward.

James W. Knapp, father of the candidate, now in the furniture business at Zanesville, is a former worshipful master of the local lodge. Initiation of his son as a member of the Marion Lodge was made possible through special dispensation granted in order that the family circle might be completed in the local organization.

James A. Knapp, the grandfather, is a thirty-third degree Mason and has been secretary of the local lodge more than 30 years.

300 Attend

About 300 members of Marion Lodge and visiting Masons attended the meeting and witnessed the unusual ceremony. Of 27 living past masters of the lodge, 20 were present.

The 20 in attendance were James A. and James W. Knapp, William J. Fies, J. Frederick Denbaugh, John H. Barrows, Charles H. Conley, Henry C. Coe, Fred L. Carhart, William E. Dove, Leroy D. Zachman, Joseph F. Chenoy, Franklin O. Tuttle, Adam Bauer, Harry J. Merchant, Asa Odell, Robert F. Watson, Frank W. Little, James H. Lymon, George A. Greiner and Ambrose J. Tower.

Following the initiatory ceremony Roy H. Waddell, present worshipful master, took charge of the meeting and called upon the candidate and relatives who had participated in conferring the degree for short talks.

BITUMINOUS MINERS TO GO ON STRIKE JULY 1

12,000 Men in Central Pennsylvania Field Will Be Affected

Philadelphia, June 25—Preparations for a suspension of all operations at union bituminous mines in central Pennsylvania on July 1, went forward today, the miners and operators having failed in their effort to negotiate a new wage scale to replace the Jacksonville agreement.

About 12,000 men who have been working in the central Pennsylvania field under a temporary agreement which went into effect on April 1, when the Jacksonville agreement expires, will be affected.

Union delegates voted down the operators proposal for a 15 to 20 per cent reduction in wages and the joint conference in session since June 21, was adjourned late yesterday. Both sides claimed they did their best to avert a suspension.

OFF TO PILSEN

Chamberlin and Levine Hop Off from Prague; Due in Warsaw Sunday

Prague, Czecho Slovakia, June 25—Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, American airmen who set a new record by flying from New York to Eisleben, Saxony, without a stop, hopped off this morning for Pilsen to visit the great Skoda machine works and the brewery where the famous Pilsner beer is brewed.

It was in Pilsen where the false report originated quoting the Americans as saying that they "flew across the Atlantic to get a glass of beer."

The Americans planned to fly to Mariendad this afternoon. They probably will hop off for Warsaw tomorrow.

Washington, June 25—Four New York stations today were denied permission by the federal radio commission to change their wave lengths. They WEBR, WGBU, WBNY and WHAP.

MUTINY OF PRISONERS IN COAL MINE AT END

Rebel Prisoners None Worse Off For Their 77-Hour Seige Underground

Lansing, Kan., June 25—The mutiny of 328 convict coal miners, who had barricaded themselves in the Kansas Penitentiary coal mine here, was at an end today and the rebel miners are little the worse for their experience, despite the 77-hour siege underground.

The mutiny ended last night after a fierce battle among the miners, 50 of them holding out for a continuation of the "strike." The 50 "die-hards" were overpowered by their fellow convicts and brought to the surface where the entire troop was taken in charge by guards.

The men had not suffered from their self-imposed incarceration since Tuesday noon.

SENTENCED TO HANG

Chicago, June 25—Mrs. Catherine Cooley, Crown Point, Ind., murderess, today was sentenced to hang Oct. 21, for the slaying of William Lindstorm last Dec. 6.

RULE GOVERNING "STOP" STREETS

Motorists in approaching thoroughfares designated by signs as "stop" streets must bring their car to a complete stop before turning into or crossing such street. The cars should be brought to a halt before reaching the sidewalk line.

INITIAL STEPS TAKEN TO BAN CROSSINGS HERE

Division Highway Engineer Asks Cooperation of Marion County Commissioners

PROGRAM STATE WIDE

At Least One Danger Point To Be Removed Next Year, Present Plan

First steps toward elimination of dangerous grade crossings in Marion County, some of which have records showing them to be veritable death traps, have been taken by Grover C. Snyder, division engineer of the state highway department, who has formally requested the county commissioners to co-operate in the project.

Snyder recently received a communication from the state department informing him that preliminary plans for the crossing elimination program proposed for the entire state have been formulated and instructing him to confer with the commissioners regarding the work in Marion County.

$1,000,000 Provided

A fund of $1,000,000 has been appropriated to finance the work during the next two years and Marion County is scheduled to share in its distribution, the plan being to eliminate at least one grade crossing in this county next year.

At a recent conference with the commissioners, Snyder requested that the county share the expense. The commissioners indicated today, however, that this request may not be granted as they are of the opinion that under provisions of the law relating to crossing elimination, the county is not required to pay any of the cost.

The law provides, the commissioners state, that half of the expense shall be paid by the state and the other half by the railway companies.

Unable To Agree

Another point on which there is disagreement between the state and county rests on the question of what crossing shall be the first to be eliminated.

The state's proposal is to have the first work done at the mud pike crossing five miles east of the city, which has been the scene of a number of fatalities. This crossing is located at the point where the Harding Highway turns east to Caledonia.

County officials are of the opinion that this is by no means the most dangerous crossing in the county. Since opening of the Harding Highway east at the point, most of the traffic has been diverted from the crossing, it is claimed.

Favor Pennsylvania

The commissioners are in favor of selecting either the Pennsylvania railway crossing on the Prospect-pk, a short distance southwest of the city, or the Main-st crossing of the Pennsylvania a short distance south of Crystal Lake Park. Their preference is the Prospect-pk crossing, as records show that this has been the scene of the largest number of fatalities during the last few years. A mother and two children were killed when their auto was struck by a train there several weeks ago.

Before taking final action, the commissioners expect to take the matter up in conference with officials of the Marion Auto Club, the Chamber of Commerce and possibly other organizations.

Plans for the work will not be made until after these preliminary negotiations are completed. It will then be decided whether underground or overhead crossings are to be built. County Surveyor Leatzow is of the opinion that overhead construction will be the most feasible.

This preliminary discussion is the start of a movement which is expected to result eventually in practically every dangerous grade crossing in the state being eliminated. The program was made possible through adoption of legislation at the last session of the general assembly, the plan being to appropriate sufficient funds every two years to finance the work.

WARREN MAN CONVICTED OF MURDER IN U. S. COURT

Cleveland, June 25—Ernest Frederick, of Warren, O., today awaited in the county jail here, his transfer to the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, where he was to serve a life sentence, following his conviction in the United States District Court late yesterday, on a charge of first degree murder.

Frederick shot and killed Walter Holcomb, Warren, merchant, in the pumping lobby at Warren, last Feb. 28. The motive was assigned to alleged reports received by Frederick that Holcomb had been too friendly with his wife.

MARION MAN RETAINED BY CLEVELAND WOMAN

H. E. Hill Chosen Attorney by Mrs. Eva C. Kaber, Serving Life Sentence

Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber, Cleveland woman who filled one of the leading roles in one of the most sensational murder cases in the history of Ohio and who is now serving a life sentence at the woman's reformatory in Marysville as the result of her conviction, has retained H. E. Hill, Marion attorney, as her legal representative.

Mrs. Kaber was found guilty with several other persons in connection with the murder of her husband, Dan Kaber, wealthy Cleveland business man.

Mr. Hill has been retained to act as Mrs. Kaber's legal agent in handling the management of her business affairs and also to represent her in any efforts which may be put forth in the future to obtain a pardon or parole.

The Marion attorney went to Marysville today for a conference with his client at the reformatory, where she has been imprisoned since her conviction more than seven years ago.

Kaber was found murdered in his home in Cleveland on July 19, 1919. Investigation resulted in the arrest of Mrs. Kaber and several other persons alleged to have been involved in the murder plot. The man accused of having been hired to kill Kaber was found guilty and paid the death penalty.

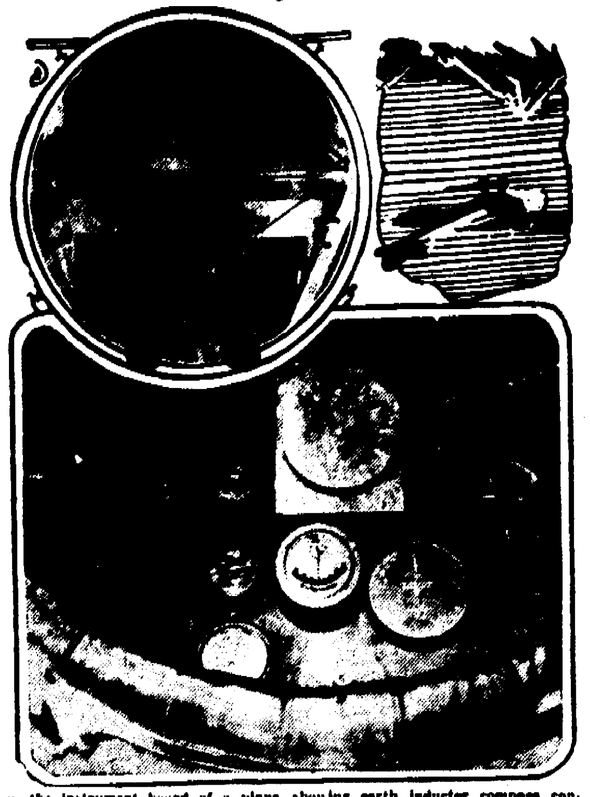
Fliers' Earth Inductor Is Explained By Uncle Sam



Top, the instrument board of a plane, showing earth inductor compass control devices. Right, the rotor and driving cups of the compass mounted in the rear fuselage of a DeHavilland plant. Col. Lindbergh demonstrated the practicability of the inductor in trans-oceanic flying.

WASHINGTON, June 25—What sort of "contrivance" is this earth inductor compass, which once set, guides aviators across the ocean? A Marion Star correspondent, going to the army air corps has obtained a first hand description of the device.

Army men are eager to point out the merits of the compass, for the Air Corps is largely responsible for its development. The public's interest in it began when Col. Charles A. Lindbergh gave it credit for "taking" him over seas.

Two Methods

Fundamentally there are but two means of determining directions on the earths surface, exclusive of astronomical observations. These are, first, the rotation of the earth on its axis, upon which is based the gyroscopic compass; and, second, the magnetic lines of the earth, which are used by the ordinary magnetic compass and by the earth inductor compass.

After unsuccessful attempts to employ in airplanes the gyroscopic compass which is independent of the earth's magnetic field, the Air Corps decided in 1920 to concentrate its efforts and expenditure of funds on the development of a "distant reading" magnetic type.

What Is Meant

By "distant reading" is meant a compass of which the magnetically sensitive part could be located at a considerable distance from the pilot's cockpit, where the magnetic attraction of the engines, fuel tanks, guns and electrical equipment would have a minimum effect. The instrument for reading the "distant reading" compass must, however, remain on the instrument board before the pilot in order that he could read them with ease without leaving his seat or even so much as turning his head.

The ordinary magnetic compass consists of one or more magnetized needles supported on a pivot in such a way that they may align themselves with the earth's magnetic lines. The earth inductor compass operates by the rotation of a small coil of wire, something like the armature of an electric dynamo, in the earth's field with the resulting generation of electric potential. The determination of the direction of the earth's lines by this method is not new, but it has remained for the Bureau of Standards in cooperation with the United States Army Air Corps to develop a practical aircraft compass using this principle.

Depends on Magnetic Field

The earth inductor compass depends for its directive sense upon the earth's magnetic field. The three components of the compass are the generator, the controller and the indicator or meter. The generator is driven by an air impeller. It may, however, be driven by a small electric motor. The generator is similar in principle to any electric generator. It has an armature and brushes, but depends upon the earth's magnetism for a field. The potential generator is therefore dependent upon the position of the brushes with respect to the earth's magnetic lines.

The controller is simply an angle indicator having a card similar to a compass and a crank for rotating the card, an inner dial, graduated to single degrees, permits accurate setting. The controller as mechanically connected to the brush gear of the generator, the rotation of the controller moving the brushes through the same angle as that through which the controller card is turned. The meter is similar to any ordinary volt meter. It is electrically connected to the brushes of the generator.

Easy To Operate

The operation of the earth inductor compass six simple. The controller is rotated to indicate the desired heading. This rotates the brushes of the generator into such a position that there will be no flow of current when the aircraft is headed in the direction indicated. The pilot accordingly turns his ship until the meter hand comes to zero. By steering so as to keep the hand on zero the proper heading is maintained. To change to a new course, the controller is rotated so that the proper heading is indicated on the dial, and the pilot then turns the aircraft until the meter hand again comes to zero.

MRS. SARAH ELLEN BLAIR IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Cerebral Hemorrhage Proves Fatal to Aged Caledonia Woman

Caledonia, June 25—Mrs. Sarah Ellen Jacobs Blair, 72, wife of J. M. Blair, died at her home on N. Main-st yesterday afternoon at 6:30 o'clock, death resulting from cerebral hemorrhage.

Mrs. Blair was born near Bucyrus, March 11, 1855, her parents died when she was quite small and she was reared to womanhood by Dr. and Mrs. Hahn of Martel, both of whom are deceased. She was married to John B. Cyphers, who preceded her in death in 1885. She was then married to Joseph M. Blair, June 29, 1895, who with two sisters, Mrs. Flora Hover of Martel and Mrs. Laura Hover, of Lima; two brothers, E. H. Jacobs, of Shelby and Reuben Rex, of Lima, and a foster sister, Mrs. Belle Rinker of this place, survive. She was a member of the Methodist Church, the M. E. Aid Society and the Pythian Sisters Temple of which she was a charter member and was active in all.

Funeral services will be held at Memorial M. E. Church at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, with Rev. F. S. Fancher officiating. Burial will be made in Caledonia cemetery. Members of the Pythian Sisters Temple will conduct the services at the grave.

Official Clean-Up Notices Served on 75 Owners of Property in Borer Drive

Copies Filed with Auditor in Accordance with Rules Adopted by State and Federal Officials in Charge of Campaign Throughout Ohio

Official clean-up notices have been served on 75 owners of farm and county property in the corn borer eradication campaign in Marion County, according to reports filed at the county auditor's office by inspectors employed in the state-federal campaign.

Copies of these notices have been filed with the auditor in accordance with rules adopted by state and federal officials in charge of the campaign. In the event that any of the land owners failed to comply with the clean-up orders it was announced that the work would be done by government men and the cost assessed against the property.

The plan originally announced was to collect the costs the same as taxes by charging the amounts on the county tax duplicate.

Refuses to Act

Early in the corn borer campaign, however, County Auditor Thomas announced that he would not permit such assessments to go on the Marion County tax duplicate unless he could be shown where the procedure is authorized by law.

Today the auditor indicated that he has never been provided with evidence of such authority and that he is standing pat on his original decision.

From this it is apparent that if the state is to collect for its corn borer clean up work in Marion County the collection must be made in some way other than through the county's tax agency.

Recently Perle Johnson of Hardin County, supervisor of corn borer eradication work in this section of the state announced that the clean-up campaign would continue until July 10. This indicates that reports of other clean-up notices in addition to the 75 now on file with the auditor may be received by that official before the campaign is ended.

Most of the clean-up notices were served on land owners during May and June when the seven corn borer inspectors employed in the Marion County quarantine area made their survey of the territory. The notices went to all persons who had failed to clear their land of stubble and other corn refuse in accordance with government orders.

Salt Rock Township Worst

The largest number of notices were issued in Salt Rock Township, where clean up orders were handed to 27 land owners.

Six notices went to owners of garden land in the city of Marion where corn crop remnants remained from last year.

Clean-up notices issued in other localities were as follows:

Marion Township, 11; Scott Township 6; Grand Prairie Township, 6; Claridon Township, 7; Big Island Township, 5; Grand Township, 3; Montgomery Township, 2; Tully Township, 2.

These townships include practically all of the Marion County quarantine area, which extends over the northern section of the county, the southern boundary line intersecting Marion Township. No evidence of corn borer infestation has been found south of this line, government authorities state.

List of Inspectors

Inspectors who had charge of the survey in Marion County and who served the notices reported to the auditor were D. C. Cope, William T. McAndrews, F. P. McLead, Charles S. Philbrook, J. A. Washburn, H. W. Cookston and O. C. Howser.

Several notices were also served by Foster L. Finkle of Upper Sandusky, who was supervisor of the campaign in Marion and Wyandot Counties at the beginning, and by Perle Johnson, who succeeded Finkle in this territory when a reorganization was effected several weeks ago.

Harding presidential campaign in 1920 when the flag was shining brightly every night, the flag has not been lighted only on special patriotic celebrations.

There is no one directly in charge of turning on the flag when occasion calls but the button controlling the lights is turned by the courthouse janitor whenever the suggestion to that effect is made by one of the county officials, it is said.

The flag has approximately 185 bulbs including, of course, 48 lights for the field of blue representing the states of the union and the remainder in the stripes. The bulbs are lighted alternately which gives the flag a wave effect. The cost to run the flag each night is about $1, according to electricians.

BAY VIEW
On Sandusky Bay

A charming spot for your summer home and week-end outings, being only six miles west of Sandusky.

Bay View is a peninsula extending into the bay, having about two miles of water front. The protected waters of the bay prevent high waves and there is no undertow, therefore making bathing and boating safe. Bay View has an elevation of about twelve feet and perfectly drained. A landscaped park surrounds the entire water front with a gradual sloping beach for the comfort and pleasure of the home owners. Playgrounds for the children. Tennis, baseball, boating with other outdoor games are provided for the use of Bay View pleasure seekers.

There are already eighty-five homes in Bay View while more are preparing to build. Ample building restrictions are provided which will assist in promoting value for the future. The contract has been let for the $1,500,000 bridge that will span Sandusky Bay, starting at the northeast point of Bay View. Work to start in a few weeks.

You can purchase one of these lovely homesites now at the old prices, $150.00 to $800.00. All lots are 50 ft. and over frontage, equal to a large city lot. Very liberal terms. Prices will advance July 20!

HOW TO REACH BAY VIEW

Take State Route No. 4 to Sandusky. Then State Route No. 12 at the square; go west, pass Venice, a short distance to Martin's Road. (See Bay View Sign at this corner). Turn to right, follow Martin's Road up into Bay View.

Only Solution

Following hours of argument and discussion of various means the school might employ to guarantee operation of the school during the first half of the coming school year it was agreed that the only solution to the problem was the raising of funds by public contribution.

Plans evolved by one group attending the session last night are blocked by recent legislation governing the financial operations of public schools. This plan, as outlined by its proponents, was to borrow funds designed for the operation of the school during the last half of the coming year in the hope that a solution would be found before the mid term was reached.

Plan Not Feasible

This plan, County Supt. C B Rayburn pointed out, could not be used because a recent act of the state legislature prohibited school boards from borrowing money for operating expenses. He explained that no debts can be contracted by a school board unless the money is in the school treasury or in the process of collection.

Others attending the meeting urged that a special election be called in order that a vote might be taken upon the three-mill levy issue to be presented to the voters in the fall. This likewise was declared unworkable in view of the fact that there is no statute providing for such procedure.

It was intimated by several taking part in the discussion that an effort will be made to place a five mill levy issue before voters in the district at the November election. If this issue passed, it was pointed out the school will have sufficient money to operate on without cramping the school program.

Protests Voiced

Protests against the proposed discontinuance of hauling children to school in buses as a means of cutting down the school's expenses were voiced by a large number. The protests came chiefly from persons living at the edge of the district.

Montgomery District School was constructed about six years ago at an estimated cost of $60,000. Bonds totaling $40,000 were issued since the building began to operate to finance additional work. Another $15,000 issue was passed to take care of past indebtedness.

Five Hard Years

With $10,000 being paid annually by the school for bonds and interest it is estimated by school authorities that all but a part of the building debt will be retired in five years. At the end of that time the school will have sufficient funds to operate on since the building bonds extend over a 20-year period.

The school serves taxpayers in Salt Rock, Big Island, Montgomery and Grand Townships. The building is located at the edge of Meeker in the corner of Salt Rock Township.

Wives of Fliers Calm As Their Husbands Impatiently Wait to Take-off for Paris

Roosevelt Field, Mineola N. Y., June 25—"I am used to my husband taking chances and I'm not at all apprehensive about this flight across the Atlantic."

This expression from Mrs Bert Acosta, in an interview today, is typical of the calm attitude of the wives of members of the Byrd expedition who are impatiently waiting to take off for Paris in the giant three motored monoplane, America.

Mrs. Acosta, a small, dark eyed woman the mother of two boys, Bert, Jr., four years old, and Allyn Lee, three years old, told International News Service she certainly did not regard the forthcoming flight to Paris as the most dangerous adventure her strapping husband has participated in.

"Why, I think the work he has been doing all along making test flights in new planes is infinitely more dangerous," she said. "Everything is mapped out on a scientific basis for the Paris flight."

At Garden City

Mrs. Acosta and Lee Byrd are stopping at the Garden City Hotel where they will receive the radio reports from the America after the hop off.

Mrs. George O. Noville, the attractive wife of Lieutenant Noville, flight engineer of the America, is also staying at the same hotel. Unlike Mrs. Acosta who has seen her husband take part in many flights and automobile speed races, she has not experienced the thrill of seeing her husband off on a dangerous mission, but she is fully as contained as Mrs Acosta as the "zero hour" approaches.

"I won't faint," she said, smilingly, when she was reminded how Mrs Charles Levine reacted when her husband took off for Europe.

Both Mrs Acosta and Mrs Noville expect to be present at the take off but they gave assurances that they would not be conspicuous. Neither plan a trip to Europe if their husbands arrive abroad successfully.

Mrs. Byrd Retiring

Mrs. Richard E Byrd wife of the commander of the expedition, is even more retiring. She has consistently declined to be interviewed or to comment in any way on the flight. She came to Garden City from Boston to be near her husband before he departs. The Byrds have three children.

The fourth member of the expedition, Lieut Bernt Balchen, is unmarried. He has no wife or sweetheart to say goodbye to him but he has a mother waiting for him in Oslo, Norway, when he goes to Europe.

When the fliers will hop off still was a matter of conjecture early today. There was a possibility of an improvement of weather conditions which would enable the America to start sooner than dawn Sunday, the hour at which Commander Byrd plotted as the earliest starting time after the last conference with the weather bureau.

COUNTY COURT GRANTS DIVORCE TO J. I. DETROW

Defendant Fails To Appear at Hearing Before Judge Scofield

James I Detrow, who filed suit for divorce against his wife, Della A Detrow, several weeks ago, and as one of his grounds for legal separation made the charge that Mrs Detrow surreptitiously extracted $47 from his trousers pocket, was granted a decree when the case came up before Judge Scofield in the court of common pleas yesterday.

Although Mrs. Detrow had filed an answer denying all of her husband's allegations and making counter charges, she failed to appear at the hearing and Detrow was granted a divorce after several witnesses had testified. Mrs Detrow was granted custody of their three minor children, whose ages range from six to 11 years.

The question of alimony was settled prior to hearing of the suit.

In his petition, Detrow charged that although his wife was a Sunday School teacher, she not only took money from his pockets but had also committed other offenses. He alleged that she ignored all of his protests in which he admonished her to conduct herself in accordance with rules of her church and religion.

Detrow was represented by the law firm, Mouser, Young & Mouser and Mrs Detrow by Carhart & Warner.

Asks Petition Dismissed

A motion was filed in the district court of appeals this morning by Waldo F. King, asking that the petition in error filed in the suit of H O Toms, trustee, against S. H DeLong and others, be dismissed. Through his attorney, L. E. Myers, King asserts that the dismissal should be ordered because the petition in error was not accompanied by a bill of exceptions containing evidence of finding of facts brought out in the lower court.

The suit is the outcome of proceedings in which King, operating the Union Mills at Prospect, was adjudged bankrupt on Feb. 28, 1925. The point at issue is in connection with a bill for $202 for flour which King sold to the American Beauty Baking Co. prior to the bankruptcy proceedings. He claims that the money should go to him and the other side asserts that it should be paid to the trustee in bankruptcy.

PASSENGER THROWN TO PAVEMENT IN COLLISION

Marthalene Melvin Uninjured in Traffic Accident; Cars Slightly Damaged

When two automobiles collided at the intersection of Blaine-av and W. Church-st, yesterday afternoon, Miss Marthalene Melvin, 210 Leader-st, a passenger in one of the machines, was thrown to the pavement by force of the collision but escaped uninjured.

Miss Melvin and another young woman were riding in a Ford roadster being driven west on Church-st by Bert Court of E. Church-st when the car was struck by another machine going south on Blaine-av. The car on Blaine-av driven by a woman whose name could not be learned, failed to slow up at the boulevard stop sign, according to accounts of witnesses.

Neither machine was badly damaged.

COUSIN OF MARION MAN IS STRICKEN IN DAYTON

W. C. Luellen, E. Mark-st, has received word of the death of his cousin, I M. Justice, which occurred at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home in Dayton. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon in Dayton, after which the body will be taken to Cincinnati for cremation. The ashes will be brought to Marion for interment in the Waldo Cemetery.

Mr. Justice was born in Marion County the son of John and Mary Justice. He was a veteran of the Civil war. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ella Justice, and one daughter, Mrs. Ethel Justice Hayes, all of Cincinnati.

FILES ANSWER TO PETITION IN BACK TAX SUIT

Asks That Action Against Martel Equity Exchange Co. Be Dismissed

Declaring that as receiver for the Martel Equity Exchange Co. he paid in full all of the taxes listed in the statement presented to him at the county treasurer's office, George Orians filed an answer in the court of common pleas today asking that the suit brought against him by Treasurer J. E. Messenger for taxes alleged to be due for the year 1925 be dismissed.

The suit is one of numerous suits which have been brought in the name of the county treasurer by C. R. Randles, of Columbus, who is here conducting a collection of delinquent personal taxes. This is the only one of the Randles suits filed in common pleas court, the others being in municipal court.

In his answer, filed through the law firm, Donithen & Donithen, Orians says that before winding up affairs of the Martel Equity Exchange Co. he called at the office of the county treasurer and made a diligent effort to obtain a statement of the taxes in full. He settled for the entire amount reported to him by the treasurer and if there is any remaining unpaid it is due to oversight and negligence on the part of the treasurer or his assistants, Orians says in his answer.

The amount alleged to be unpaid is $36.37.

Decision Affirmed

Notice that decision of the common pleas court in the alimony suit of Edna Smith against George W. Smith has been affirmed by the court of appeals was received by the county clerk here today in a letter from the appellate tribunal. Following hearing of the case in the Marion county court on Dec 7, 1926, Smith was ordered to pay $10 cash alimony and $50 monthly thereafter. He carried the case to the court of appeals on error.

Would Modify Order

A motion was filed today in the divorce suit of Mildred M McKibben against Ralph B McKibben to have the original order of the court, issued on Dec. 4, 1926, modified by transferring care and custody of the couple's two minor children to Mr and Mrs Miller McKibben and by discontinuing alimony payments of $7.50 a week which the defendant was directed to pay his wife.

Because of ill health, the motion states, McKibben is unable to continue the alimony payments. Mr. and Mrs. Miller McKibben, designated as being farm owners with means sufficient to provide the children with a good home, have consented to accept custody of them and the plan has been approved by Mrs McKibben the motion states.

Hearing was set for 9 a. m. on June 29.

Sued $694.63

Judgment for $694.63 is asked by the Sinclair Refining Co. in a suit brought in the court of common pleas today against Jonathan S. Redd. The money is due on an account, the petition states.

FORMER MARION COUNTY RESIDENT IS CLAIMED

Richard O. Richards, 74, Dies at Son's Home in Cleveland

The body of Richard O Richards, 74, of New Albany Pa practically a lifelong resident of Marion County, who died late yesterday afternoon at the home of his son Carl Richards in Cleveland, will arrive in Marion this afternoon and will be removed to the home of his daughter, Mrs. William Burley, 450 S Grand-av. Funeral services will be held Monday and burial will be in Bloch Ridge Cemetery. Cancer was assigned as the cause of Mr Richards' death. He had been removed to his son's home in Cleveland one week ago.

Although he was born in Iowa Allen County, Sept 19 1853, Mr Richards had lived practically all of his life in Marion County leaving here five years ago when he located in New Albany. His parents were Art and Mrs Thomas Richards, both originally of Wales and his wife Anna May Abrell, to whom he was married June 30, 1874 in La Rue. He was a member of the I O O F and K of P lodges at Mount Vernon.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs Anna Richards, two daughters, Mrs Burley, and Mrs Dale Allread, Columbus, three sons Harry Richards, Toledo, C A Richards Lake Worth Fla and C W Richards, Lakewood, 16 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren. Three sons and one daughter preceded him in death.

WEED CUTTING ORDERS ISSUED BY C. M. TOBIN

Declares Movement Is Initial Step Toward Betterment of City

The first step of people of Marion who are for the betterment of their own town should be to cut the weeds and rid the rubbish from their own back yards and vacant lots," is the declaration made by C M Tobin sanitary commissioner today.

In response to the many complaints regarding weeds on vacant lots and elsewhere Commissioner Tobin has started his war against the practice and has issued letters to local property owners on whose lots weeds have been let grow.

Backed by a city ordinance which states owners must keep weeds cut from their property, Sanitary Commissioner Tobin has warned negligent citizens that prosecution will follow if his order is not adhered to.

NEW CRUSHING PLANT WORKING AT QUARRY HERE

$150,000 Worth of Equipment Installed by Ohio Blue Company

An entire new stone crushing plant, said to be one of the most complete and modern in the country and installed at a cost of approximately $150,000, was started in operation this week by the Ohio Blue Limestone Co at its quarry three and a half miles north of Marion.

Installation of the new equipment was completed after more than a year's work during which the quarry practically suspended operations.

The improved plant was necessary in order that the company may be able to supply the demand for its products which is expected to come from all parts of Ohio and neighboring states, officials of the company say.

Capacity Increased

The new plant will greatly increase the company's production capacity, enabling it to supply a wide market area. The company produces crushed stone and screenings for use in road construction and general building work.

The plant, located on the Lakeville road, east of the Bucyrus pike, is a model in all of its details and it is said that there are only six others of its type in the country. The company is provided with excellent railway and transportation facilities to handle its output.

2,000 Tons Daily Output

Present plans are to maintain an output of between 2400 and 3000 tons of stone and screenings daily. In a test made shortly after completion of the plant five and a half tons of stone were crushed in 20 seconds.

RETURN FROM WOOSTER ODD FELLOWS' MEETING

T E Bolander Mr and Mrs George Hageman and Fred C Bacon and son Earl have returned from Wooster, where they attended the annual I O O F. grand lodge meeting held this week, the closing session taking place yesterday.

One of the most important actions taken by the convention delegates was the voting down of a resolution to abolish payment of benefits in the state of Ohio. As a result of this action the present system of benefits will remain in force.

C R Summers of Oberlin was elected grand master for the ensuing year and holding next year's convention.

The thing looks a bit that way, David, we'll admit, but maybe we are prejudiced by the fact that such has been the game in the league from the very first in all matters in controversy.

Improving the Traffic Signals.

The local authorities—we assume that it is the action of the department of public safety—are to be commended for their experimentation looking to the improvement of the lighting of the traffic signals in the up-town business section. Possibly the excuse for disobeying the signals so frequently offered by motorists, that they were unable to distinguish the signals owing to the dimness of the lights installed therein to illuminate them, is often fictitious, yet it is not impossible that such may sometimes have merit.

The lights can be seen beyond all question at night or during the daytime when the sky is heavily clouded, but it is often the case on a bright, sunshiny day that there is ground for the statement that the red lights are too dim to be seen until the stop line has been passed.

Whatever the merit there may be, or lack of it, in such alibis as are offered by motorists, the installation of larger lights should overcome any excuse for such attempts to evade responsibility for violation of the traffic signal regulations. We note that the authorities also tried the experiment of removing the shutters to further brighten the signals. If this serves the purpose, well and good, but it is just possible that benefit might be derived from more frequent cleaning of the glasses. Exposed as they are, the lanterns pick up a lot of dirt and dust. It doesn't take long for such an accumulation as to cause a decided decrease in the visibility of the lights.

A little more care in this regard would do no harm and might result in material benefit. If nothing else were accomplished, it would lessen the ground for the "couldn't see it" alibi.

We have had a lot to say on this subject in the last few months because we are interested in any device intended for the protection of our citizens. If what we have said has in any way resulted for their better safeguarding we are well repaid for any and all time, effort and space given to the matter.

No Ground for Criticism.

This newspaper is not in sympathy with the reported criticism of Charles A. Lindbergh as a result of his refusal to be paraded through the business section of Dayton. We can see ground for disappointment on the part of the thousands who had assembled from far and near along the advertised route of the parade, but we are utterly unable to see where there is ground for resentment that he did not bow to the wishes of the committee which sought to take charge of his movements on his arrival in the city, and to our way of thinking the request made to one of the backers of his notable flight that there be explanation of "the sudden aversion of Lindbergh to public demonstrations" was not only misleading and hence unfair, but also utterly lacking in taste.

Lindbergh went to Dayton to make a short visit with Orville Wright and not to become the figure of a popular demonstration. He had announced that the demonstration in St. Louis would be the last; that he was anxious to have his time to himself and get down to business. He expressed the wish to get away from crowds, and had he made no such expression his appearance as portrayed in newspaper cuts showed the awful drain the many demonstrations in his honor have been upon his energies. He had the appearance of a man thoroughly tired out.

Without knowledge on the part of Lindbergh—at least, nothing has been offered to indicate that he was consulted in the matter—officials and citizens of Dayton, unquestionably to do him honor and possibly at the same time catch a few of the reflected rays of the spot-light, planned to escort him through the principal streets. In other words, they planned another demonstration. Lindbergh had been through demonstrations such as no mortal man before him had received in all history—in Paris, in Brussels, in London, in Washington, in New York and in St. Louis. While he no doubt appreciated the honor done him, no doubt he was sick and tired of them. There is nothing to indicate that he had acquired in Dayton or elsewhere a "sudden aversion" to such demonstrations. His manner and his actions over in Europe indicated that he had no particular liking for them. Upon a number of occasions over there he expressed regret that he could not be free to go about and see the cities he visited. His course was not the course of his inclination, but one followed by him through the belief that he owed a duty to his country to follow it. He has indicated this same desire to get away from crowds since his return to this country. And it is about time that his fellow-countrymen permit him to go and come like any other private citizen of the land.

Colonel Lindbergh is yet upon the threshold of active life. He has his future before him. He has turned down offers of one kind or another which would have brought millions to him. There probably are but few men of his age in the country who would have followed the course he did in this respect. He wants means, of course, but he does not wish to acquire them in the ways offered him. His desire is to enter into a life of constructiveness, preferably in the forwarding and development of aviation, and the sooner he gets into it the better he will be pleased. He feels, and has so said, that he shouldn't be asked to go on indefinitely as a subject for demonstrations, and he should be accorded his desires.

Certainly he has made a splendid ambassador to the Old world for the furthering of a kindly feeling toward us abroad. He has perhaps accomplished more in this respect than any official representative we ever sent abroad, possibly more than any group of them. It seems to us that he has done his share and should now be permitted to follow his own inclinations and not be further fettered and held away from what he looks up as the big things of life merely because hundreds of thousands of his fellow-countrymen have a desire to see him.

A Pittsburgh educator says love and financial worries disrupt the sleep of students. However, it should not be taken that he insists that students are the only sufferers in this respect. There very probably are others.

The Bishop of London, home from a vacation in this country, says that prohibition over here is a success; that under it industry and business are thriving and prosperity is being enjoyed. The average Britisher has no use for prohibition. He figures that the best way to utilize his wage is to drink it up.

Poems That Live.

LORD OF MY HEART'S ELATION.

Lord of my heart's elation,
Spirit of things unseen
Be thou my aspiration
Consuming and serene!

Bear up, bear out, bear onward,
Thou mortal soul alone,
To selfhood or oblivion
Incredibly thine own—

As the foamheads are loosened
And blown along the sea,
Or sink and merge forever
In that which bids them be,

I too must climb in wonder
Uplift at thy command—
Be one with my frail fellows
Beneath the wind's strong hand

A fleet and shadowy column
Of dust or mountain rain
To walk the earth a moment
And be dissolved again.

Be thou my exaltation
Or fortitude of men,
Lord of the world's elation
Thou breath of things unseen

Some Health Tests Applied.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

There are three ways to judge the health and vigor of a human being. The appearance of the skin, the expression of the face, and the general posture of the body give a very good idea of the physical condition.

You walk down the street behind some man. You will observe that his shoulders sag. He shuffles in his gait and shows evident lack of elasticity in his system. Even though this man may hold up his head and show a flashing eye, he may in reality be weak and far below normal in health.

If you know a person whose face shows happiness and contentment ordinarily, and suddenly the happy expression is gone for days at a time, you may be sure something is wrong. It may be that the trouble is purely mental, but in all probability there is a physical basis for the change in the mental state.

By the clearness of the skin, the absence of roughness or eruption, and the evidence of good circulation, as shown by the flush of health, you have another test of physical well-being.

The expression of the countenance gives a very good idea of the condition of the muscles. If there is sagging and flabbiness of the tissues of the face, it is probable that there is sagging and flabbiness of the muscle, not alone of the face, but of the whole body. The general muscular tone is shown by the appearance of the face.

It is perfectly natural for persons who desire to appear healthy to use cosmetics. They attempt to camouflage the true condition and by the use of rouge and other cosmetics to give the appearance of health.

Personally, I have no particular objection to people using cosmetics. The only objection I have is that too often they are depended upon, instead of the natural methods which will give redness of cheek and lip and sparkle of eye. It is far better to have rosy cheeks as a result of exercise, good food, fresh air, and proper rest than it is to get this appearance out of a rouge pot.

It is important to take good care of the skin. It has an important part to play in the mechanism of the body. It shares with the lungs, intestines and the kidneys the duty of carrying away the wastes of the body. The sweat glands give off as much as a quart every twenty-four hours. The quantity is much greater than this if there is active exercise or hard manual work, overdressing or living in too hot rooms.

I hope you will live such a life that the muscles will be kept firm, the posture erect and the skin clear. Then if you will cultivate good thoughts, choose happy companions, give yourself a reasonable amount of entertainment, read good books, and invite your soul, you will have the happy expression which is one of the evidences of health and vigor.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

K. C. K. Q.—What causes headaches with a feeling of pressure as though my head would burst?

A.—Have your blood pressure tested as this may be the cause of the trouble.

Editorial Comment.

SAMSON AGONISTES.

Ever since the war Poincare has decorated French memorials to the dead with the bitterness of his thought. The old patriot sees Carthage. His Sunday speeches in one French town after another, where monuments have been dedicated to the common loss and the common devotion, have been regarded as serious obstacles to any general recovery from fear and animosity. He draped pessimism over the Luneville memorial last Sunday, reverting to indiscretions which have had utterance in Germany and maintaining his thought that in spite of treaties, words, pledges, and assurances there will be no dependable peace.

The hope that he is wrong gets more support from what other men say in Europe than from what they do. He thinks that Germany will arise in military power when it can. Germany is the greatest military potentiality in Europe. It is recognized as such. It recently reported that in accord with demands it had destroyed its eastern fortresses. Forty thousand French soldiers are to remain in the army of occupation in the Rhine. The character of German armament with its strict limitations is defined. The size of the army is restricted and the manner of enlistment prescribed. Germany must report obedience, and whatever the Dawes payments may be called, they represent war indemnities.

How could a new German generation grow up without intense desire to escape these bonds and be free, accountable to on one, and subject to no one? Would any nation conscious in its real being of the same strength it had before its subjection remain holding the stirrup for a master to ride its horse?

With such facts as he sees, Poincare may be tragically right, but even he could not keep the German head close cropped forever, but can give a meaning to each increase in strength. The poor chance of peace was by agreement and not by repression, which can only enrage and not repress.—Chicago Tribune.

CLEARING THE ATMOSPHERE.

A young man has occupied practically all of our attention for nearly a month. Now he passes on and we are free to resume life where we left off. But shall we? We doubt it. Perhaps we may drop back in the same old ruck, but if we do we can never again feel wholly satisfied, self-complacent, confident of our ability to get the best out of life. Perhaps we have been emotional, almost hysterical, but for some strange reason we have never felt self-conscious. Perhaps we have become hero-worshipers, idolators, but cynical and callous as we are we have enjoyed ourselves.

Lindbergh turned us topsy-turvy. He plumbed our depths. He touched chords we had forgotten or never used. He stripped away artificiality. He made us children again. Why? Because he was natural; because at heart we rebel against conventions and formalities and in him we recognize a youth who was unspoiled, just natural. For years we have known bunk and blah when we saw it, but we have accepted it because it was the easiest thing to do. Along comes a boy, a representative of hundreds of thousands of others, and we worship him. We fall down in adoration before a youngster who has courage, imagination, native courtesy.

Lindbergh has cleared the air. It is our duty to keep the atmosphere clear and fresh, to thank him for helping us to see the things which really count, to hold fast to the simple lessons he has taught. All great lessons are easy to learn; they are not easy to remember.—New York Herald Tribune.

AMATEURISM IN SPORT.

With Yale and Harvard crews now out for practice at New London, it is interesting to contrast their preparations with those of a similar kind in England. Here both crews are in charge of professional coaches. At Oxford and Cambridge there are no rowing machines, no tanks for indoor work and no professional coaching.

In a book on "Games and Sports in British Schools and Universities," Dr. Howard Savage emphasizes the amateur spirit in which English schools go in for athletics, and particularly the complete absence of paid coaching and "mass development" of sports. In England "there is not a single professor of physical education" and the instruction given by the coach "is essentially traditional in its nature." While more students take an active part in sports than in American schools, there is none of the "organization" which has brought our college athletics under the head of Big Business.

An interesting theory is advanced by Dr. Savage to account for British amateurism. The mildness of the English climate permits sports to be carried on nearly all the year round instead of being concentrated into the "season." The damp and muggy weather makes exercise necessary "for the dissipation of bodily sluggishness." In a country where it is possible for so many people to play so much of the time there is little need for elaborate organization and systematizing.—New York Times.

Former Governor Lowden's statement that his presidential aspirations are in the hands of his friends is enough to melt the heart of a stone.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

When you think of Russia don't think only of the soviet government, of Trotsky or the late Lenine. Remember that Russia is one-sixth of the earth and there are 150,000,000 people living there. There are tens of thousands of toiling peasants and tens of thousands of small tradesmen that the world never hears about. Many of them know less about the soviet government than we do in America. Only a few leaders really try to lead their people somewhere. So many lead for themselves alone. Few are led. Many are exploited. Read between the lines in the newspapers. Think less of the discredited leaders and more of the patient people.

Today American paper users import paper from Germany. The paper is made out of wood—whole forests. And yet, all Germany is not so big as Texas. That's what conservation, reforestation will do. Our great forests in the United States, our oil supplies, and our water power sites have been eaten into in such ruthless fashion that the history of American waste is an appalling record.

When a successful man tells you there is no such thing as luck he is boasting. Of course there is luck. There are "breaks" in the game. The important thing is to be prepared for luck when it comes. Be ready for the break. If you aren't prepared for your opportunity when it comes, no amount of luck will put you through. You have heard it said that some men are born lucky. Better say that some men have the industry and the good sense to get ready for luck.

We are in the midst of the baseball season. Before you throw the pop bottle remember that the umpire can see better than you can. He's close. His eye is on the ball. It's his business to know. He usually does.

So with the umpire, so with the men we put in office to look after our national affairs. Before you throw the pop bottle of criticism, remember that the president and secretary of state are sitting where they can see more than we can. They know the inside facts. We see only the outside facts.

Trust the umpire until you know he's rotten.—Copyright, 1927.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, June 25—The list of successful writers who are adopting a pontifical manner toward Manhattan, grows. Few of the best-selling novelists reside here any more for more than a month or so a year. They come to town to see editors and publishers and disappear.

Ten years ago New York was the literary hub. Greenwich Village attics housed almost as many writers as cobwebs. West Fifty-Seventh street studio apartments were filled with them. Westport, Connecticut, was only one of innumerable suburban literary centers. Today the metropolis is merely a point of editorial contact.

Harry Leon Wilson, Peter B. Kyne, Charles and Kathleen Norris, Rupert Hughes, H. C. Witwer, Don Herold, and scores of other top-notchers are permanently residing in California. Sinclair Lewis spends most of his time in Europe. Frank Ward O'Malley has been for three years living along the Riviera.

James Oliver Curwood prefers Owosso, Michigan. Melville Davidson Post the quiet of Lost Creek, West Virginia. Harold Bell Wright clings to the scorched dunes of Arizona. Arthur Somers Roche divides his time between Florida and Connecticut. Breckenridge Ellis lives in Plattsburg, Missouri.

Richard Connell resides on a farm at Green Farms, Connecticut. Booth Tarkington spends his summers in Maine and his winter in Indianapolis, where Ivie Meredith Nicholson, Kin Hubbard and George Ade. Edwin Balmer and William MacHarg cleave to Chicago.

Ernest Hemmingway and Leonard H. Nason live in Paris. Homer Croy, when not in Marysville, Missouri, is usually in London or Paris. Ben Ames Williams lives in the rural fastness of New England. Albert Payson Terhune spends most of his time with his famed collies at Pompton Lakes, New Jersey. Octavius Roy Cohen sticks to Birmingham, and Hugh Wiley to San Francisco.

It is true many of these writers made their reputations in New York, but it is equally true that just as many attained celebrity in their native health. The advantage of New York is that your manuscripts are returned a little faster.

There is one writer who, when struggling up, used to complain that when he sent a manuscript to the Saturday Evening Post, the editor would send an emissary to Jersey City to intercept it and send it back. He seemed to receive those he mailed out in the morning back in the evening.

Even the beetle-browed gangsters are deserting the vanishing supper clubs. They have found the posture of sitting at ringside tables eating timbales of caviar off gold-ringed plates fruitless. The easy money guys have grown reluctant in mixing with strangers. Too many have been plucked. It is told of one gorilla who, upon taking his seat, looked about the room and inquired blandly of the hostess: "Where are the simps?"

Also those gay maids with a Nietzschean slant to their egos who thought it the height of adventure to bask at the ringside with gunmen, are not so careless these days. They found they were somehow always losing their vanity bags and sundry articles of jewelry with each little adventure.

Views of Those in Public Eye.

DR. CHARLES H. MAYO.

Charles Horace Mayo was born at Rochester, Minnesota, July 19, 1865, and since 1888 has practiced surgery in that city. He is a surgeon and associate chief-of-staff of the Mayo clinic. In 1915, with his brother, Dr. William J. Mayo, he donated $1,500,000 to establish the Mayo Foundation for Medical Education and research, at Rochester, in affiliation with the University of Minnesota. During the World war Dr. Mayo was colonel and chief consultant, alternating with his brother, for all surgical services of the medical department, United States army. He has been awarded many degrees by universities in the United States and abroad and has held office in and is a member of many medical associations.

Dr. Mayo speaking of the development of medical science and surgery says:

"Medical men have in the last thirty years gained more knowledge of disease, its cause, prevention and treatment, than in the 2,000 years preceding.

"That is the reason we have so much specialization. There is so much to learn.

"Progress in medicine, as in other fields, moves in cycles. At intervals of every 200 years or so specialization comes to the fore and general practice and the general practitioner go into the background. We are now in the midst of such a period.

"There is a danger, perhaps that we shall get too many specialists and too few men trained in the real, the general care of the sick, but when that time comes there will be a reversal of the cycle, the general practitioner will come into his own again and the specialist will become the technician.

"The general practitioner will care for the sick, will make the diagnosis and call in the specialist only as he needs a technician, either for operations or for work in a special, limited field.

"You know medicine has so many fields that we do not need specialists. Why in dentistry alone—a field limited to the care of the mouth—there are four types of work, the filling of teeth, the making of plates, the extraction of teeth and the treatment of infections."

BIBLE SCHOOL TO BE OPEN TO ALL LAST WEEK

Marion Children Still Have Opportunity To Take Advantage of Training

Marion children will have an opportunity to take advantage of the Daily Vacation Bible School being conducted here at the present time under the auspices of the Marion County Ministerial Association. Although the classes have been in progress for three weeks with a total enrollment of 525 students, the closing week, beginning Monday, June 27, will be open to any other children wishing to enroll for that length of time. According to R. A. Garvin, who is in charge of the school, children entering even for only a fourth of the time will be benefited by study of a wide scope of material.

Next week's sessions will be open to parents, Sunday School or public school teachers or any other older persons interested in attending that parents may see the work being done in the school and teachers may obtain suggestions for the summer's course of study.

Demonstration Planned

At the close of the Sunday night service at Church of Christ at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, July 3, children of the entire school will be present in a demonstration at Chautauqua Pavilion, Garfield Park. The program will consist largely of demonstration of the work they have accomplished in the schools, dramatization of Bible stories and memory and contest work. Dr. U. S. Davis, chairman of the Ministerial Association committee in charge will preside. There will also be a patriotic concert by the Marion Steam Shovel Band.

Seven new pupils enrolled in one school session, the attendance having been slowly on the increase since the opening of the school. While membership fell slightly below that of last year, attendance proved much better, there being an average attendance of 75 per cent of the total enrollment each day of the school session.

TWO VISITING PASTORS WILL SPEAK SUNDAY

First Church of Nazarene Has One of Fastest Growing Congregations In Marion

Membership on Increase Despite Strict Qualifications; All but Few of 169 Enrolled Are Loyal Tithers, Minister's Records Disclose

Despite strict membership qualifications which require abstinence from intoxicants, quarreling, gossiping, profanity, dishonesty, negligence in dress and behavior and questionable entertainments, the First Church of the Nazarene, corner of State and Columbia-sts., has one of the most rapidly growing congregations in the city.

The present membership is 169. Of this number 98 have been brought into the church through the efforts of the present pastor, Rev. F. H. Watkin.

The church, one finding out of cities, perhaps the most prosperous for its size in Marion, financially as well as spiritually, the majority of its 169 members being loyal tithers.

During the past year, according to the statement of the pastor, $6,582 has been raised, $600 of which will go to Olivette College in Illinois. A parsonage valued at $7,500 has recently been purchased. New hymn books and Bibles have been provided to meet growing necessities.

There are only four 100 members in the Marion church who are under the age of 20 years, although the Sunday school is open to persons of all ages. Sunday is the children of the church.

During one of the last services of the Nazarene church, held only a few hours to grow, the pastor reported that 11 new members received on Easter Sunday, two on the previous Sunday and seven more pending membership.

Do Not Use Tobacco

One of the most outstanding records of any church in the city is that held by the Nazarene Church. Reverend Watkin states that not one of the 169 members of his congregation uses tobacco in any form, or has to do with trafficking therein. Nor do they use intoxicating liquors.

Before any man or woman is admitted into membership in the Church of the Nazarene, he or she is requested to answer certain questions and to qualify for membership. Divorce unless upon scriptural grounds, bars one from membership.

Organized 14 Years

Fourteen years ago the First Church of the Nazarene was organized with seven being 15 charter members of which there are yet 12 active members. N. B. Herell district superintendent had charge of the rules of organization.

Charter members included Leonard Brady, Mrs. C. J. Col. Dudelle Coil, Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Downs, Mrs. William Dowler, Mrs. Nate Leaman, Mrs. Henry Gibson, Mrs. Josephine Menley, Mrs. Minnie Morris, Miss Alice Nickerson, 16 feet under Gregg Parker, I. L. Wickham and Mr. Be [illegible] Shupe.

List of Pastors

The present pastor is the first one to be called back to the pastorate a second year. Previous who have served the church in Marion include the Rev. Ernest Dorn, who erected the tabernacle on High st. W. R. Gilles, C. H. Hopkins, M. A. Messenger, J. W. Harvey, during whose pastorate the most success has been good, [illegible] to get going. The Bible

A SERMONETTE
BY DR. U. S. DAVIS
Pastor, Trinity Baptist Church

OUR [illegible] Bible Schools are teaching the boys and girls [illegible]. We believe that a knowledge of the Bible is necessary to the moral [illegible] of our youth. The Bible is the text book of these schools. The Bible [illegible] of 66 books. Its records cover a period of 15 centuries of [illegible]. Its history is not only the [illegible] but the authentic [illegible] duration.

As a literature it has quickened the study of history, geography, astronomy, geology, [illegible] as has no other book. The Bible required men to [illegible] all to write and teach its truths. That command compelled men to [illegible] the book into nearly every known language and dialect. The Bible [illegible] to be the one universal book than any other.

The Bible [illegible] the world's best literature. The object of the Bible was not to give us [illegible] of literary composition, yet [illegible] found in these [illegible].

Byron [illegible] Cain" takes the name and plot from [illegible] Milton in [illegible] Paradise Lost. Byron's Inferno is a page taken [illegible] the Revelations. Milton read of the angel cast out of [illegible] Paradise Lost. Isaac read the story of Hercules [illegible] the walls around Jerusalem and wrote his great epic poem, [illegible] Dore's masterpieces is The Messiah.

[illegible] and we find that the masterpieces are Bible subjects. [illegible] Mountain by Raphael, Rubens' two greatest pictures, The Ascent to the Cross and The Descent From the Cross. Rembrandt's [illegible] painting, "The Angels Hastening Out of [illegible]. Da Vinci's "Last Supper" is familiar to everybody.

[illegible] we recall Handel's "Messiah," Haydn's "Creation," Beethoven's [illegible] the Mount of Olives" and Mendelssohn's "Elijah."

The Bible [illegible] to place in the world's the moral and spiritual worth of its writings. Literature is forever in the heart of the people. It is still the world's best seller. Its sale [illegible] open its open page. It brings peace [illegible] sick comfort to the bereaved, and a new [illegible] of [illegible] to the weary, sin-sick soul. It is the chief light of the [illegible] generations. In a hundred thousand churches it is read every Sunday for inspiration and guidance. It is a holy altar in every home [illegible]. It goes with every ship that sails the seas. Every traveling man finds it in his hotel room. It teaches man a relation to man, his duty to God and the eternal future. It is the one book that every young person should know. For a while we are teaching it in our community Vacation Bible School.

MORE THAN 140 CONVERTED AT REVIVAL RITES

Evangelistic Services at Oakland Evangelical Church Considered Successful

More than 140 seekers have responded to the invitations to the altar during the revival in progress the last few weeks at Oakland Evangelical Church, it was announced by Rev. H. F. Williamson, pastor, today. It is thought that Sunday's services, with which the revival will close, will be even better attended than previous successful services of the campaign.

Rev. W. F. Petticord, Columbus, who heads the evangelistic party, will preach at services at 10:30 a. m. & 30 and 7:30 p. m. There will be special musical numbers by the remainder of the party and the last call to the altar made at that time.

FIRST REFORMED CHURCH PLANS COMBINED RITES

Sunday School and Regular Morning Service Will Be Held Jointly

One of the first of a series of combined Sunday School and church services to be held at First Reformed Church during the summer months will be held there between the hours of 9 and 11 o'clock Sunday morning and each of the following Sundays until September.

Rev. Herbert F. Weckmueller, pastor of the church, will preach on the subject, "The Exceptional and the Commonplace." Sunday night his sermon topic will be, "The Trifles of Life."

With the service Sunday night at Reformed Church Sunday evening services will close there for the summer as members of that church have elected in the city union services. There will be no young peoples services during the summer.

Lindy Bob
Nasty Digs
Forecast

BY EDNA S. DUTTON

DANGERS may lurk in the highways and byways leading to fame But it certainly is worth running the gamut. Who wouldn't be a Lindy and have everything from soda pops to babies named for them to say nothing of royalties paid for recommending hair tonics, baseball mitts and what not. Of course the men have been strutting their stuff by donning neckties adorned with miniature airplanes for some time but even in doing homage to a hero it isn't best to be too hasty so if the fairer sex throughout the length and breadth of the land have seemed a little bit tardy in crashing through with an honorable mention its because they were waiting for something good. And it's here at last. It's the Lindy bob If you girls have visions of letting your locks grow a la grandma's day, perish the thought, you owe it to the hero of the time to get a Lindy bob A friend of mine just returned from a nearby metropolis where she fell for the mode and it's a fadeaway. It looks more or less complicated but they say it isn't. One little snip of your favorite barber's shears and you have an inverted peak in the hair at the back of the neck. Two more snips and there appears as if by magic a rebellious looking swirl at the sides of the head significant of the abandon one feels when severing all material relations with terra firma via the aerial route. A mild application of the hair lay and a simple twist of the comb and the result is a curl resembling nothing so much as those dangerous and wicked looking spit-curls popular not so many moons ago That's the Lindy Dip and the ensemble is the Lindy Bob.

I WISH some genius would get busy and publish a book of timely retorts to be used in conversations with both sexes of all ages, but particularly for use in combating the more deadly of the species, i.e., the female. There doesn't seem to be any age limit when it comes to passing out a few verbal cuffs for even out of the mouths of babes one frequently gets "told." To be sure in the very young it is only frankness and they really don't realize that it gets under the hide, while in those of more advanced knowledge it is a pain, out and out, carefully thought out dirty dig, but nevertheless one has to combat with the prattlings of babes and should be armed, so to speak. I attended an outing recently where there were those of tender years and after the supper they began to get restless and wondered what they could do. Wishing to be true picknicker in every sense of the word I inquired of them if there wasn't a game we might play by way of entertainment, visualizing at the same time "Simon says thumbs up," or "feathers," and couple of others in the same category, when a mis of less than 10 summers piped up "I know a lot of games but you can't play them, you can't run fast enough."

FOLKS had better be good this year or the cyclones will get them. Not just one but a flock of them is forecast for this year by a famous long distance weather forecaster who seems to have hit the nail on the head so far, so it might be well to lend an ear to his prognostications for the future. Brief spasms of abnormal heat are scheduled for the months of July and August but on the whole, the year of 1927 will be barked back to as the cold, dry year. If the signs are read right the thing to do is emulate the busy bee and garner the lowly bean and potato in lieu of the usual crop of corn and apples which, it is said, will be conspicuous by their absence.

SOCIETY MEETS

Emanuel's Lutheran Church Group Is Entertained

Members of the Young People's Missionary Society, Emanuel's Lutheran Church were entertained last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Rengert, Cherry-st. Mrs. Chris Weber conducted the devotional service and Mrs. J. W. Schillinger presented the June study topic, "West Across the Rockies." A discussion of the topic was led by Oscar Ice. Mrs. Oscar Ice read an interesting paper on the study topic and Mrs. Lloyd Mautz entertained with a vocal number, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. William Ackerman. Mrs. Lawrence Ringert presided as program leader. Plans were made for a picnic July 17 north of city. Refreshments were served during the social hour. Guests of the society were Mrs. W. G. Roszmann and Miss Ella Rengert. The next regular meeting will be July 29 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weber, Olney-av.

Story of Life In Japan Interestingly Told to Missionary Society

Miss Helen Albrecht, of Columbus, Formerly of Marion, Addresses Meeting Sponsored by Prospect Street M. E. Church Women's Organization

The story of life in Japan was entertainingly and interestingly told by Miss Helen Albrecht, of Columbus, formerly of this city, at a meeting sponsored by members of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, Prospect Street M E Church, last night in the church parlors Guests included members of the congregation and friends. Miss Albrecht, who is a missionary and teacher at Happy Hill School, Fukuoka, Japan, is spending her furlough at her home in Columbus, and also attending Ohio State University.

Flags of foreign countries together with the American flag, and baskets of garden flowers added a colorful decorative touch to the parlors Following the program hour refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed. Miss Albrecht wore the costume of the Japanese women and was assisted in displaying the garb of the natives by Dorothy and Margaret Oliphant. Miss Albrecht also had on display a number of Japanese articles of apparel and models of the household utensils.

Opens with Song

The program was in charge of Miss Freda Wanner, president of the society, and opened with a song by the audience and the prayer by Mrs. Caroline Shamlaugh. An original welcome song for Miss Albrecht was sung preceding her talk. "The word heathen isn't being used very frequently in missionary work," Miss Albrecht said. "The word infers that they are beneath us, which isn't true. They certainly are not beneath us when given an opportunity, for they have proven it. The missionaries do not try to change their ways, partly because many things they do are very commendable. Through comparisons they show them in many ways how our ways are best and it isn't long before they are doing things our way because they want to. The mission schools teach the girls the use of the various foods, sewing and in many schools the girls are taught the care of babies. The religion they have known has degraded the people, particularly the women, they have been the slaves of the men, and when the people of a country are degraded it means the downfall of a nation."

The program concluded with a song by the audience and prayer by Rev. A. F. Uphoff.

Some of the evil things we learn by experience are not worth knowing.

Is This Your Child?

WHILE your child is acquiring those ideals on which character depends, piano study will lift her out of the commonplace into a happier, fuller, finer development. Poise, magnetism, charm, culture—these qualities go hand in hand with the ability to play the piano.

Your child can be one of the countless unaccomplished, or one of the envied few. The opportunity, the obligation to decide, is yours.

Present day methods of piano instruction are quick and pleasant. Never before has it been so easy—and so essential—to own a good piano. We can show you a wide variety of pianos, perfectly designed, beautifully executed, and conservatively priced. Stop in at our showrooms. There is no obligation, of course.

A MARION NURSE HIGHLY INDORSES THE NEW KONJOLA

She Tells How Celebrated Medicine Ended Years of Stomach Trouble.

Konjola has received the most startling voluntary testimonials ever written by Marion people. In every section of the city, and nearly town

MRS. EVA TRICKEY

men and women are describing the wonders of this new medicine after it has delivered them from their health troubles such as disordered stomach, liver, kidneys or rheumatic pains

Just a few days ago, Mrs. Eva Trickey, a practising nurse, address 70 E. Center-st, Marion, made the following statement about Konjola in her report to the Konjola Man at the Stump-Sams Pharmacy, 121 S. Main-st, this city, who is interviewing throngs of people daily and explaining Konjola

"This is the first medicine that actually ended my stomach trouble," said Mrs. Tricker, "and I know it is only right to indorse such a remedy to others who suffer.

"I had my first attack of stomach trouble ten years ago. In recent years my case grew worse. Invariably after every meal, quantities of gas would form, crowding my chest and heart. I felt like a heavy rock appeared in my stomach, then shortness of breath. Sharp pains centered around my heart muscles. These attacks lasted for days at a time and kept growing more severe. At last I was subject to incessant vomiting. Nothing I ate would digest. I was dreadfully nervous at all times.

"I tried special dieting for weeks at a time, took special treatments and had the best attention, but nothing would stop my troubles. I heard of this much talked about medicine, the new Konjola. I made a trial of it, and it proved beyond a shadow of a doubt to be exactly what I needed. I am entirely free of stomach troubles now. My digestion is perfect and I eat what I want. The heart flutterings, heavy feeling in my stomach and shortness of breath and all things of the past. I completed my course of Konjola and waited a few weeks to see if my old ailments would return, but I have never suffered since. This is the first time I can say I am entirely out of misery in years, and I am strongly recommending this Konjola because I know what the medicine will do."

The Konjola Man is at the Stump-Sams Pharmacy (Stump & Sams), 121 S. Main-st, Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.—Adv.

The Moon Mice

By Mitchell R. Hall • Illustrated by Charles Shaw

LARRY Grenfall, American traveler and student of Eastern magic, receives a telephone call from

BEN MANSOUR, cosmopolite and old friend, saying he must see him at once. Larry goes and Mansour tells him he is about to die and that he wants him to go to Morocco, where he, Mansour, is a sheriff or native ruler. He is to find the Temple, endure the Ordeal, crush the coup and put Mansour's son on the throne. A Moor appears and gives Mansour a token, a ruby ring which Larry later wears. The Moor also throws into the room a tiny ivory tiger—the Striped Death. Mansour dies and his body disappears—carried off by the Moors. Larry goes to Morocco, finds

OMAR BEN MEDJAD, who dresses him as a wizard, and at Youssef el-Habassi he starts on his travels. He soon meets,

ALLAL ABDI, Mansour's son, who travels with him. The two have many adventures, and Larry discovers that the supposed son is in reality a daughter. The two grow to love one another, but Benna is spirited away from Larry in the hut of a holy man to whom he is demonstrating his powers as a wizard. In his search for her he is attacked by the trained tiger, the Striped Death, whom he kills. Later he is captured by Berber soldiers and taken to Gate of Daggers. He manages to get safely through the daggers and finds himself in the throne room of the Seven Tribes of Berbers where a Voice addresses him.

CHAPTER FORTY

Confidently, Larry prepared to resume his harangue. The urgent command of the voice betokened without doubt that the American had his hidden audience with him. He went on:

"I see the assembled hosts lining up and the march begins. But, what is this? I see out on the plains, a fluttering of flags. I hear trumpets sounding and I see the Partisans, the Submissive Tribes and the Spanish regiments gathering. They form in line of march and they have guns—heavy guns—that shoot great balls that carry far. I see them moving, and they move toward the mountains!"

Again he paused, knowing the dramatic effect of forcing his audience to swallow its impatience. Again the clarion voice boomed:

"Make haste! You are overly long answering my question. What of the crisis? Where will it occur?"

Nothing under Allah may move faster than Allah directs," Larry said unperturbably, though his calm words belied his hammering heart. "I see the armies of the Spanish and their allies the Partisans and the Submissive Tribes, marching deep into the Atlas. They leave Ab Dukka and they march around Duk el-Abda. They strike into the defiles of the great mountains, and I see the hosts of Moslem marching toward them. Neither knows as yet of the other's approach—but what is this? I see a bird, yet not a bird, that rises from the Spanish ranks. That is not a bird turns and flies with the speed of a homing dove, back to the armies of Spain. It alights, the men it carried talk with the commander of the infidels."

Now came a rustling among the hangings and four men, clad in flowing scarlet robes, their beards long and unkempt, swept across the floor. White, tense faces and eager eyes they passed before Larry.

Came the clarion voice:

"Speak! What comes next?

"I see again the hosts of Moslem. They approach a pass in the mountains, they enter it. At the other end the Spanish are entering. They, knowing the Berber armies are coming, are prepared, the hosts of the Group, unaware of the proximity of the infidel dogs, sweep forward confidently, but they are in danger, O Voice—they are faced with annihilation." The forces meet and now the birds that are not birds are soaring high above the battle, dropping death into the ranks of Moslem, the Spanish great guns are vomiting death from the ground as goes on with the Group."

Larry heard his unseen audience draw sibilant breaths sensed that they were considering whether to pounce upon him and throttle him or to await further word from the voice. He hastened on.

"Now I see a casket, with golden symbols and carven deeply. A marabout opens it and takes out—aye, I see it now—the Sacred Eye without which no man may rule the Seven Tribes. The fighting becomes desperate, men die like flies in a sandstorm, like Chiadmas when the cholera comes. I see—but wait! What is this?"

He paused, holding his arm across his face as though he were straining to capture a vision in reality because his racing brain was temporarily at a void and he had to conjure anew. He heard the deep breathing of those who stood before him and could distinguish an impatient, smothered muttering from the hidden voice. On purpose he kept them waiting, yet awhile although his latest idea was already formed in his mind. Then he spoke:

"I see a way to victory—I see a way to defeat the Spanish and the Partisans and their allies from the Submissive Tribes at the Pass of Death. Aye, Voice, that is where the cross will come, the Pass of Death. I have seen it revealed how Moslem may overthrow her enemies at one blow in the Pass of the Death, so that the Spanish armies will be hurled back onto the plains utterly beaten, utterly routed."

"Speak! Speak!" The way, tell us the way!" It was the voice clarioning again.

Now Larry dropped his head abjectly. Slowly he swung it sidewise, in a negative gesture.

"What is written is written. It is written that I may only speak of the way to the assembled leaders of the hosts before the start of the battle itself in the Pass of Death. I swear, by the sacred name of the Compassionate One, that at that time it shall be revealed."

"Offspring of a thousand jackals!" cried the voice, angrily, "you have cheated the Gate of the Daggers, passed the Gate of the Burning, you have outwitted Beni Ahmed, and by your magic you have done to death the Striped Death of the Forbidden Road. But your magic will be as water that has already poured over the dam if you do not speak. Choose, then, speak and tell us the way, else there will be at dawn a crucifixion at the Gate of the Daggers. Choose!"

Now Larry played his hand as coolly as any poker player who ever ran a bob-tail flush into a full house and drew. Feigning resignation he answered:

"What is written is written. It is written that I may speak the way before the assembled hosts at the start of the battle. But, Allah willing, then crucify me, but the hosts are not birds and the guns of the Spanish will hurl Moslem back in waves of blood. I see it—I swear it is the truth by the Beard of the Prophet!"

"Seize him and throw him into the darkness beneath the Temple. If, before we are ready to march, he has not talked, he shall be taken to the Gate of the Daggers."

It might be supposed that Larry, under the circumstances, should have spoken. For he knew as much about the Moors and their superstitions and beliefs as the Moors knew themselves; therefore he was supremely confident that he could leave them in suspense until the last minute and then, if necessary, obtain a promise that he would not be harmed if he spoke. After that, making out that a dispensation had been granted for him to speak, he could voice a plan that he had in mind; also, if given the opportunity, he could use his uncanny powers of legerdemain to drive home his utterances.

But there was another reason behind his actions. This was his desire to be made a prisoner and thrown beneath the Temple. He knew that unless the Temple of Doom was drastically unlike other centers of religious lore throughout Islam, in all likelihood there would be a great gathering of prisoners below, mingling more or less freely with one another. He hoped, therefore, that such a condition existed here, or if it did it virtually assured free reunion with Benna, who undoubtedly was beneath the Temple, at this minute. At the thought his heart pounded madly and his brain whirled giddily in anticipation.

He felt rough hands seize him, saw the matadors close in around him, then he was led forward around the raised dais until he was directly beneath the tribal throne that rested there. He felt the arms that held him thrust on forward and he hurtled rapidly along, only his youthful agility saving him from pitching on his face. The floor opened suddenly and he was precipitated instantly and without warning into space that closed blackly around him.

Even before he had time to wonder where he would alight he struck what he sensed was a high thick pile of cushions. Unhurt, but shaken, he arose, endeavoring to make his eyes used to the darkness. He heard soft noises as though low winds were sighing across a summer prairie, he heard a soft shuffling, as though baby ostriches were treading their ludicrously wide quite wings amid the folds of downy rose petals. Then, as his eyes became used to the darkness he saw a faint crimson tinge in the air, saw figures seated and lying about, saw a few who were being carried on by little groups of persons. He heard moanings and mutterings being mouthed. Verily, he was among the prisoners of the Temple!

He moved forward stopping before one who stood, silent and sullen, his eyes fixed on the floor. This one he addressed, and was surprised to find himself hushing his own voice in keeping with the tones about him—it was as though some intangible substance in the air had touched his vocal chords, bidding them to soften and function only in whispers.

"Tell me, is there a youth, Allal Abdi, among you?"

Now the other raised his head and glanced at Larry, but the glance was listless, hopeless. But the man nodded his head.

"Ai, he is with us but at present he is with those who attend the Eye."

"And where is that?" Larry asked eagerly, endeavoring, however, to keep any trace of his impatience out of his whispered tones.

"You will learn soon enough, fool, without seeking to know in advance. Wait until the keepers of the Eye come with their long whips and their curbes, wait until you feel the sting of their lashes across your back, wait until you stagger under a load of a full hundred weight and toil up a half mile of mountain, then you will know."

Larry's thoughts flashed briefly to the previous night, when he had seen the faggot bearers toiling along, wailing, yet worshipping as it were that eerie, goblin light on the peak.

"You mean," he whispered, "that we are slaves here?"

"Just that," the other answered gruffly. "Now, bother me no more, or as Allah lives, I shall strike thee down. The next group that goes to attend the Sacred Eye needs must include me. I know what I shall face, having been there before these many times, therefore, I am in no mood to converse."

Larry walked on questioning, seeking. Everywhere the information he gained was the same as that given to him by the first man he had approached. Finally, stopping a burly Moor, whose right eye was gone, he said:

"Tell me, when will those who are away attending the eye return here?"

The other looked at him quickly then, his voice too low for the others to hear, whispered:

"I had not thought to find you here. Woe is me that I ever saw you that I ever had converse with the Sheikh Tahar el-Hassan."

Larry stared and looked at the other more closely. It was Youcoub el Bachir, his host of the previous day.

"If I am responsible for you being here, Youcoub el Bachir," he said softly, "then I shall get you out of this. Depend upon it, for I were a poor wizard, indeed, if I could not overcome walls when I can overcome tigers. I am here for a purpose," he added, knowing that if he were to admit having been captured and literally thrown in here against his will it would weaken him in the other's sight and in the sight of all with whom Youcoub el-Bachir might speak. "I have plans. When they are ripe I shall remember you, Youcoub, and you shall not regret having known the wizard. Now answer my question."

Self-sacrificing people are often admirable, but they seldom hesitate to sacrifice you with themselves.

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

LILLIAN met us at the door of her small suite, her hands outstretched in friendly greeting.

"This is mighty sweet of you Phil to include me in your party," she told Mr. Veritasen, and there was no trace in her voice or eyes of her delicately malicious comprehensive of the reason for the invitation which he had given her. But my employer's answer revealed that he did not understand her gibe, and that as I feared, he had overheard her telephone query to me. "Is the lifeboat needed?"

"My dear," he said impressively, it is I who should extend thanks to you. Don't you know that you are as eagerly desired on any party of mine as even a lifeboat was by ship wrecked mariner."

Not by the flicker of an eyelash did Lillian betray her recognition of the thrust.

"You're such a poetic old darling, Phil," she replied prettily, that I think you deserve a kiss for your neat phrasing."

She grazed his neck in the merest excuse for a caress dodged his arm immediately and expertly outflanking to encircle her and darted to the doorway between her living room and the bedroom.

"I'm all ready except my hat," she flung back at him in nonchalant dismissal of the episode. But from under my demurely lowered eyelashes, I saw that she had scored in the little exchange of wits. She had struck the one note he dreaded to hear—that of his advancing age—in her quip and for an instant the lines around his mouth had deepened and his brows contracted.

Lillian had run immediately she had shot her bolt, without waiting to see its effect upon him. He sent a furtive glance at me, and evidently reassured by my discreetly lowered lashes that I had not noticed his momentary discomfiture, he flashed an audacious call after my friend.

"Don't think I'm going to permit that exit," he said. "No hirelor in the world would stand for that futile imitation of a kiss. Come back here and do it properly."

She reappeared in the doorway, smartly hatted and gloved and with a mulish motor cloak thrown around her. Lillian has the rare art of wearing clothes, and she also possesses the common sense to let someone else whose honesty and taste she can trust, do her buying for her. Years ago she lived in the same house with a woman who afterward became an assistant to a world-renowned creator of styles. When the employer, whose business ability was in inverse ratio to her artistic flair, became bankrupt, the woman, with very little capital, started a dress shop upon an unfashionable but busy street, keeping her affiliations with the sources of supply which had fed her employer's exclusive establishment. Here Lillian found her again, and immediately put herself in the other's capable sartorial hands. As a result she, and Marion also, were always smartly clothed, at reasonable prices and with the least possible waste of Lillian's time, every hour of which spelled dollars.

I gave her strong, handsome face, her steady yet mirthful gray eyes, her silvery hair, and her erect youthful figure the meed of admiration which she always calls forth from me. I saw the same tribute in Philip Veritasen's face as she made a grimace at his command.

"It wouldn't be possible to kiss you properly, Phil," she said audaciously. "You're not that kind of person. Besides, the bell-boy is at the door, I am sure. I phoned for him before I put on my things, and I must consider my rep-p-u-tation. Of course you have none to consider, but your friends aren't all

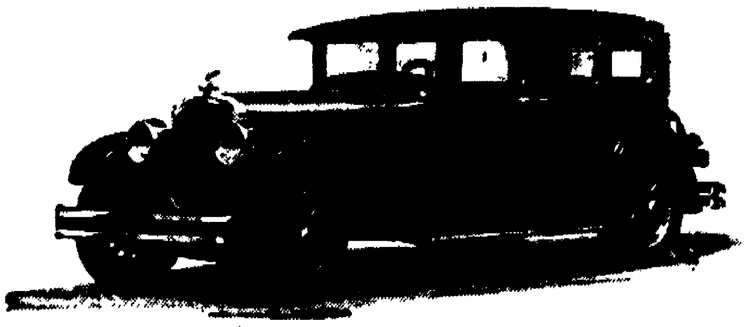
"I've just had the ride of my life"



And this is the car—a Chandler—$995 f.o.b. Cleveland

I'M not a race driver, by any means, but I do like the way this Chandler moves when you shoot on the gas.

Now I know why so many friends of mine have been praising Chandler. And I can easily see why Chandler is making such widespread gains in sales, and enjoying such a successful and prosperous year.

For real performance, as well as style and comfort, I nominate Chandler. It ticks off the miles like an 18-jewel watch—and eats up distance at a pace that makes the charge of the Light Brigade seem like a slow motion movie!

My wife votes the straight Chandler ticket, too. She says it's the nicest car to drive she ever knew. She likes the marvelous ease with which it steers, and how handily she can park it in spaces she'd pass up in the average car.

And we both like the way it stays on the job. No sick spells. No whining or whimpering. And the car lubricates itself from end to end the moment you press a plunger with your foot!

Just check up all I'm saying by seeing this car, and driving it yourself. You'll understand, then, why I say my first ride in a Chandler was the ride of my life.

REAL ESTATE SETTLES DOWN DURING WEEK

38 Transfers Shown on Deed Record; Mortgage Business Shows Slump

Mortgage and real estate transactions in Marion county settled down during the last week to normal average following the unusual record of the preceding week when 51 parcels of real estate were transferred and 53 mortgages totaling $180,800 were filed.

In the week closing yesterday, 42 mortgages amounting to $91,410, less than half of the total for the preceding week, were filed at the county recorder's office.

There were 38 real estate transfers shown on the deed record, 13 less than the previous week's total.

61 Mortgages

Only four mortgages on farm property were filed during the week closing yesterday, the amount being $14,100. There were 37 mortgages on city property amounting to $77,310. Local building and loan associations made 32 of the loans on city property, representing a total of $64,200. Local banks loaned $9,900 during the week, $7,000 on city property and $2,900 on farm property.

The largest mortgage was one for $12,000 on an E. Center-st property.

Farm loans included one for $3,600 from the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co. and another for $2,580 from the Federal Farm Loan Bank of Louisville.

HOMES IN BRIGHTWOOD

—Photos by Bauer

Brightwood Addition Seen as One of Marion's Coming Residential Sub-Divisions

Although Section Has Been Open but One Year Development Has Been Remarkable; Several Homes Already Under Construction; Others Planned

One year ago Brightwood Addition was opened to the public, and today, with sidewalks laid, sewers in, and several homes under construction, it has reached a point of development which is remarkable for the short period in which the work has been under way. In addition to the improvements now completed, pipes have been ordered for the water mains. Gas mains are about to be placed, and electric lights are about to be added. These improvements will give Brightwood Addition every advantage which the rest of the city enjoys, and will not deprive it of the peculiar advantages which it alone enjoys in its beautiful wooded tracts and rustic beauty will within easy walking distance of the center of the city.

Twin streets, Durfee and Brightwood-drs, run through Brightwood Addition, from Mt. Vernon av. to Vernon Heights blvd. Paving will begin very shortly along the south end of the section, where a boulevard is to run down as a part of the Harding Memorial plan.

No finer homes are at present being erected in Marion, than two residences which are under construction on Durfee and Brightwood drs. Edward H. Fishmer is building a Dutch Colonial of unusual beauty on Durfee-dr. Henry Hochstetter is completing a brick Dutch Colonial on Brightwood-dr. All lots which have been sold on Durfee-dr are 100 feet in width. Three other local people, who have purchased lots here plan to start the construction of homes yet this summer.

Indian Mound

Between the two 60-foot streets which run through Brightwood Addition, is located one of the most famous historical spots in Marion. This is called "Indian Mound," and is found near the south end of the tract. The mound itself is densely wooded and is one of the beauty spots of Marion. In the early days of American history, it served as the burial place for the Indian tribes of this region. It has never been explored, and with one single exception, the tombs of these exile inhabitants have never been disturbed. Just beyond this Indian Mound, the twin streets run into Vernon Heights blvd. at the Harding Memorial.

Closely adjoining Brightwood Addition, Lafayette-st has also shared in the building progress which is going on there. On Lafayette-st Wesley R. Isleib and Harry T. Curtis have practically completed their modern homes. Albert J. Houghton has purchased a lot there and is ready to start building a home.

Good Location

One of the chief reasons for the excellent response given by the public to the appeal of Brightwood Addition, is the fact that this tract is located in the best residence section of Marion and combines all the advantages of the city with the trees, flowers and sunshine which are usually to be found only in a suburban home. Credit for the development of this addition must be given to Miss Genevive Hummer, and Hayes Thompson, who have acted as the official of the Landscape Architecture Co. and have directed all the plans for Brightwood Addition.

BUILDING HERE SHOWS DECLINE DURING WEEK

Only Six Permits Issued; Grant Taken Out for One $3,000 Home

Building in Marion took a considerable drop this week when only six permits for construction were issued residents of this city, by City Clerk Keller. The number is a slump of five over last week.

Two permits for dwellings were among the six issued this week. One of the dwelling permits taken out by C. E. Clutter of Spencer-st, called for the construction of a $3,000 home on E. Church st, the largest amount to be paid for a Marion building for the last two weeks. The other dwelling was estimated to cost $400.

One garage permit issued to E. A. Sloan with an estimated cost of $100 was recorded. Together with the construction of a coal shed costing $30, a porch at $50 and the remodeling of a garage and kitchen the total amount of building in Marion during the past week was $3,600, also a drop from the preceding week.

Until this week, building activities this year ran about parallel with those of last year. Both years, however, show a sharp decline over the preceding year.

STATE LIBRARY MODEL ON DISPLAY IN CITY

Placed in Window at Uhler-Phillips Co. Store; To Cost $250,000

The model of the Kent State Normal Library is on display in the show window at the Uhler Phillips Co. The exterior is of Bedford sawed sand stone, with bronze doors and steel sash. The interior is of marble and oak finish the library is to be used by the public as well as the students at the school. The contract was let to the Woods Construction Co. of Lima at a little less than $250,000.00 which amount was appropriated by the state. Honan & Ingleson, architects and engineers, of Columbus and Marion, are the architects for the library.

FOUR OTHERS IMPLICATED IN CHURCH CRIMES

Admits Career of Pillage and Arson and Enters Not Guilty Plea

Covington, Ky., June 25—Denying participation in the pillage and robbery of 39 Ohio and Kentucky churches, Clifford and Albert McArthur, and John and Perry Vogt, all of Bromley, Ky., were held under $5,000 bond each here today, when they were charged with complicity in church robberies in Kenton and Campbell County, Kentucky. Churches, following the reported confession of Ray Marsden at Upper Sandusky, late Friday, in which authorities say the four men were implicated.

The case was continued to June 29. Clifford McArthur furnished bond. The others did not.

Detectives who arrested the four men upon Marsden's confession and allegations, Friday went to a spot indicated by Marsden along the Licking River, and there in an abandoned automobile found a golden monstrance that had been stolen from St. Benedict Church, Covington, May 1.

Authorities here say, that Marsden's confession, indicates a remarkable memory, and that, dates, places and robbery details in police reports, coincide with those mentioned in the confession they report he has made.

Upper Sandusky, June 25—Authorities of Ohio and Kentucky today are checking the confession of Ray Marsden, 41 alias Ray Dean, Flint, Mich., who confessed Friday that he and four companions of Bromley, Ky., had robbed and burned 39 churches in Ohio and Kentucky, according to local police. Marsden has been under arrest here since May 20, charged with robbing the Carey Shrine of our Lady of Consolation of the sacred image. This image is credited with having worked many cures and is visited annually by thousands.

Although Marsden has confessed to this campaign of pillage and arson, he pleaded not guilty to the Carey charge, and will be tried June 30, on charges of robbery and blackmail.

Wyandot County officials charge Marsden stole the image at Carey, and then attempted to extort $200 from the Rev. Alora M. Fish for its return. He was arrested, it is alleged, when he sent a boy to the priest's residence to collect the money.

Names Cathedral

Twenty-two Ohio churches, and 17 churches in Kentucky were pillaged by the five men, according to Marsden's reputed confession. Fifteen of them, he said, were in Cincinnati, three in Dayton, and one at Delhi, near Cincinnati. Among the churches burned were included those at Erlanger, Latonia, Independence, Decoursey and Sandford town. He named also the cathedral at Covington, Ky., as one of the edifices robbed.

Marsden denied he took part in the robberies of Dayton, authorities declared here, but named John and Perry Vogt and Charles and Albert McArthur, all of Bromley, all under arrest, as the robbers. He knew of the pillage, but had no part in it, he said. A Cincinnati refining company, he said, bought gold cut from chalices with a tinners shears.

Marsden was released from the Toledo workhouse in January, and left there penniless. At Bromley, he said he had about $2,000 in his possession. He told authorities, they said, of having been at the Shrine of St. Anne De Beau Pre, in Quebec, and also at Fort Wayne, Ind.

WOMAN NEAR KENTON IS RUN OVER BY WAGON

Mrs. Warnie Joseph Seriously Injured in Peculiar Accident; In Hospital

Kenton, June 25—Mrs. Warnie Joseph, farm woman residing southwest of here, who was seriously injured when thrown from a heavy wagon and run over is resting easier at the McKittrick hospital, Kenton, and attending physicians say there is a good chance for her complete recovery.

She sustained two broken bones, one the pelvic bone, and body cuts and bruises.

The accident occurred near the Joseph home while Mrs. Joseph was assisting her husband. The team of horses she was driving gave a sudden jerk causing her to fall from the wagon. One of the wheels passed over her body.

Seeing his wife fall and hearing her cries, the husband rushed to her and later removed her to the hospital.

DYNAMITE DISCOVERED UNDER TRACTOR TANK

Find Wires Leading from Spark Plugs to Charge; Plot Revealed Near Kenton

Kenton, June 25—What is believed to have been a well laid plot to kill some unknown person for revenge was uncovered during the past week when workers discovered dynamite planted under the gas tank of a tractor being used in construction work on the cement bridge near the Whitetown school, south of here, dispatches state.

Two wires connected with the tractor spark plugs led back to the explosives. The contraption was discovered by John Johnson, an employe, as he was oiling the machine preparing to start it. Just as he reached for the crank he noticed the two wires and tracing them found the dynamite. With him at the time was W. G. Torrence, Hardin County resident.

Had the crank been turned over the spark would have fired the cap and the resulting explosion, no doubt, would have killed the two men and set fire to the flying gasoline, thereby destroying all evidence of the crime.

Ada Man's Tractor

The tractor was the property of C. C. Carpenter, Ada contractor, who with most of his employes live in the college town.

Evidence indicated, it is said, that the mysterious person placing the infernal machine was familiar not only with dynamite but with the electrical ignition system of the tractor. The dynamite cap was taken from a quantity kept stored nearby by Mr. Carpenter for blasting purposes.

During all the time the construction work has been in progress Mr. Carpenter has been constantly sustaining losses from theft and vandals and it is believed that the person who planted the dynamite might be the same one guilty of the thefts.

BYRD MAY NOT GET AWAY UNTIL MONDAY MORNING

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., June 25—Commander Richard E. Byrd of the monoplane America, which is to make a non stopflight to Paris, announced at noon today, after a conference with the weather bureau, that storm conditions still prevail over a 600-mile area across the Atlantic and that there will be no hopoff today, that there is a "bare possibility" of a take off tomorrow but in all probability the start will be made Monday morning.

ARTIST IS SUICIDE

Paris, June 25—Lawrence Murphy, 26, an artist born in Atlanta, Ga., was found dead in bed in his apartment in the Latin quarter today. The police declare it to be a case of suicide by gas asphyxiation. Murphy left several letters now in the possession of the police, who refuse to divulge their contents.

CHARGED WITH KIDNAPING

Toledo, June 2—George Hicks, Spencer, Ill., is held here for Chicago police by whom he is charged with kidnaping John Sansone, Jr., four years old, of Champaign, Ill. The boy, it is said was found in Hicks company in a rooming house.

CONDITION UNCHANGED

The condition of F. E. Burton, who is critically ill at his home, E. Prospect-st, is reported to be unchanged today.

Youthful Interest Shown In Church Work at Galion Baptist Young Peoples' Meet

Groups from Shelby, Mansfield, Bucyrus and Marion Attend Union Rally; Delegation from Marion Church Opens Program

Galion, June 25—Enthusiasm and youthful interest were demonstrated to an unlimited degree at the rally held last night at the First Baptist church when various societies of the Mansfield association of the Baptist Young Peoples Union united for a helpful and enjoyable meeting. Besides a large group of local members Shelby, Mansfield, Bucyrus and Marion were well represented and made possible the success of the assembly.

The delegation from Trinity Baptist Church, of Marion, opened the session in an informal manner with a number of special cheers and clever society songs. This group, numbering 14, displayed unusual spirit throughout the meeting and contributed the principal program events.

Girl in Charge

Miss Velma Tuttle, leader of the local society, had charge and called upon Herbert Edwards and Annabelle Curtle for a brief devotional. Helen Casey served as pianist for the singing. Two vocal solos "Love in Springtime," by Luigi Arditi and "Across Mighty Lak' a Rose" were presented by Mrs. Carl Marsh with piano accompaniment by Theodore Schuster.

Pauline Young played a piano number, "Cottenfield Dance" and an instrumental trio consisting of David and Burnell Tennant, Herman Hoard and Annadale Curtis favored with several selections.

A group of intermediates gave a dramatization of one of the regular discussion topics "My Vacation" and the portrayal was much enjoyed.

Dale Gorman, state association president, of Marion, was the principal speaker of the occasion and by his humorous and informal manner of address won the immediate approval of his audience. Gorman announced plans for the state convention which is to be held in Akron in October and urged attendance at the national meet in Philadelphia next month. Two other Marion workers, Miss David Summerlot and Miss Naomi Rhinehart were introduced and gave short talks. Mrs. Summerlot, the wife of the chairman of the newly created city and associational committee, explained the purpose of the group and gave much encouragement to smaller organizations of the district. Miss Rhinehart told of the Christian life program and outlined the work. Beginning with a sketch of the life of Russel Conwell instigator of the work, Miss Rhinehart stressed the necessity of working for the set goals of the plan.

Following the program a social hour with refreshments served by a committee of Galion members, was enjoyed in the church social rooms.

HARDING AREA COUNCIL TO MEET AT SCOUT CAMP

Cabin Completed; Work Started on Indian Ring; To Install Lights

Frank D. Glosser, president of the Harding Area Council of Boy Scouts, has called a meeting of the Marion council and the executive committee of the area at Camp John A. Owens at 6:30, Monday night. They will hold the regular business meeting and inspect the camp.

Today at the camp, where 45 scouts are holding their regular summer outing, marked the completion of another cabin. Work also was begun on the "Indian Council Ring" which will be improved with lights to make play production possible in a natural setting. The ring will also be improved with totem poles a fire place, log seats for the tribe, and a great seat for the chief.

Scout Commissioner Kenneth Young of Kenton, yesterday inspected the camp and was well pleased. He reports a large turnout of Kenton scouts going to camp during the second period, to start July 4.

Among the numerous visitors at the scout camp yesterday was Mr. L. W. Dietrich and family of Minneapolis. Mr. Dietrich is a member of the scout council at Minneapolis and states that the local camp compares favorably with the Minnesota camp, which was rated Class A last year by the National Committee on Camping.

Each of the lodges entertained last night during the camp fire period by putting on special stunts. Sunday will end the first week of camping for the scouts.

SALVATION ARMY POST HOLDING TAG BENEFIT

Proceeds To Be Used To Send Girls to Camp at Delaware

Members of the Salvation Army are sponsoring the benefit tag day sale being held today in the business district of the city, for the purpose of raising funds to provide vacations for 14 or more girls at the army camp, Greenwood Lake, Delaware. The sale is in charge of Captain William Killoch, assisted by about 25 workers including members of the Girl Guards.

This is the first year that an attempt has been made to send local girls to the camp which is located at one of the most attractive places in the state. A helpful and interesting program has been arranged for the camp activities including sewing, art work, Bible study, nature study and swimming. The camp is carefully supervised and competent instructors have been secured for the study periods.

EPWORTH MUSIC GROUP ENTERTAINED AT BANQUET

Covers were placed for about 50 members of the music committee and choir of Epworth M. E. Church at the banquet given in their honor last night in the church basement. Baskets of garden bloom centered the tables.

W. E. Orcutt, director of the choir, presided as chairman, and talks were given by Homer R. Waddell, representing members of the music committee, Miss Margaret Adams, of the choir and Dr. F. L. George, pastor of the church.

Following the program members of the choir held a rehearsal for the program to be presented Sunday night at the church, which will mark the close of their activities for the summer.

FUNERAL SERVICES ARE HELD AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

Funeral services for Patrick Gilbert Fagan, who died Wednesday at his home 1024 N. Belmar, were held at 9 o'clock this morning from St. Mary's Catholic Church and burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery. Rev. John T. Hamilton, assistant pastor of the church, officiated.

DEDICATION OF FONT WILL BE HELD IN CHURCH

Galion First Lutheran Church Plans Program To Be Given Sunday Morning

Galion, June 25—A special dedication program for the new baptismal font will feature tomorrow services at the First Lutheran Church, the event taking place at the regular morning hour. The font is the gift of Mrs. Mabel Bracher Cunningham of Pittsburgh. Pa. given in memory of her parents the late Julius Bracher and Harriet Bibler Bracher who were faithful members of the church for many years. The regular dedicatory ritual will be carried out and the minister will use an appropriate subject. The Significance of Baptism." The choir under the direction of R. R. Ehrhart with Miss Edna Tracht at the organ, will present an anthem number "My Jesus As Thou Will" by Wolcott and following that number Mrs. Cunningham will personally make the presentation with Fred Wilson accepting the gift in behalf of the congregation.

Rev. O. C. Kramer the pastor will conduct the dedication service and after an exercise by children of the primary class will close the service with baptism of a large group of children. The font is of white Vermont marble and will occupy a prominent place at the altar.

Combined Service Plans

The plan of combining the Sunday night Christian Endeavor meeting with the regular church service has been proven interesting and beneficial at the First Presbyterian Church and it will be tried again tomorrow night with a novel subject for discussion "Why Is a Rain on Sunday Most Damp Church officials and society leaders agree that this new system of conducting the services increases adult interest in the young people and influences the C. E. members to more faithful church attendance. A social affair of importance for the coming week is the meeting of the Women's Missionary Society which will be held at the country home of Mrs. John Patton on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Elmer Logan is the assisting hostess.

Rev. Thompson of the Baptist Church using Hos. 11:12 as a text will preach for the morning service "Judah the Ruler, the God and the Faithful with Saints" and for the final service "God's Absence and the Return of Ephraim."

"Stephen the Shining Example of Christian Faith" will be the title of Rev. Auer's morning address to Peace Lutheran congregation and tomorrow night the children of the Sunday School under the direction of Miss Florence Durichi will give a interesting account of "Jesus Sought By the Gentiles" for the night meeting.

At the First Reformed Church Rev. G. F. Zinn will use as his two subjects for sermons "Learning to Pray" and "Pillars of Manhood." The choir with Miss Naomi Tracht as soloist will give the usual anthem.

During the summer months protestant churches of Galion will carry out the usual plan of union services, meeting each Sunday night in a different church with a weekly change of speakers and musical groups. The first of the series will be held at the First Reformed Church July 3 with Rev. W. O. Montague delivering the sermon.

SERIES OF ACCIDENTS REPORTED NEAR KENTON

Four-Year-Old Boy Struck by Auto; Girl Bitten by Dog

Kenton, June 25—A series of accidents in which a number of persons were injured, none seriously, have been reported from Kenton and surrounding territory.

Clifford, four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Rowen Keel, North Leighton-st, sustained bad bruises about the body, a wrenched left knee and a cut on the head when he was knocked down by an automobile driven by Asa Fredmote, Kenton.

As far as could be learned the accident was unavoidable, the child running in front of the car before it could be brought to a stop. The youth was running across the street near his home to meet an older brother when the mishap occurred.

A second accident occurred when Miss Maxine Pickering, 7 daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pickering, farmers of near Kenton, was bitten in the leg while attempting to separate two dogs that were fighting. Several stitches were required to close the wound and the youth was given treatment for tetanus.

According to reports, the little miss accompanied by her dog was calling upon a neighboring family when the canine and another started fighting. As Miss Pickering started toward them her own pet turned on her.

Lorenta Postle, south of here, received a broken right wrist while attempting to crank an automobile truck. In trying to turn the crank over the engine suddenly kicked, throwing the young man off his feet.

Caught in a chain attached to a cow and thrown violently to the ground Max Levock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Levock, south of here, suffered a dislocated left shoulder.

PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS CAN'T PLAY SUNDAY BALL

Philadelphia, June 25—The state supreme court today upheld Dauphin County Common Pleas Court which enjoined the Athletics baseball club from playing baseball on Sunday. All Sunday amusements for which admission is charged are banned in the state. The opinion was handed down by Supreme Court Judge William I. Schaffer. It was prompted by quo warranto proceedings instituted by State Attorney General George Woodruff.

HELEN WILLS DEFEATS MISS GOLDSACK TODAY

OHIO CONTRACTOR DIES, VICTIM OF VIOLENCE

Coshocton, June 25—David Beckman, 57, Newcomerstown, contractor near here, died here today, a victim of violence, police believe. He was brought here late Friday suffering from a bullet wound in the back of his head.

Beckman, his relatives and friends state, had been missing from his home from last Saturday until Friday night when he was found [illegible] with a bullet [illegible]

PLAN ANNIVERSARY

Arrangements For Observance Made by White Shrine

Plans have been completed for the observance of the tenth anniversary of the organization of Marion Circle, No. 15, White Shrine of Jerusalem, to be held Monday night at the Masonic Temple. Arrangements for the observance are in charge of committee of which Mrs. Mary L. Evans is chairman, assisted by Mrs. George Rice, Miss Elizabeth Rank, Mrs. Uncle Carr and Miss Beatrice Rohrer, members of the social committee. The work will be followed by a program arranged by Mrs. Emil Sweney.

THEFT SERIES IS REPORTED BY LOCAL GROCER

R. W. Williams Recounts Number of Robberies and Attempts to Police

After local police had arrested the youth who confessed to robbing the grocery store of R. W. Williams at Waterloo and Bennett sts. Friday night, the store was again entered Sunday night and an attempt to rob the store was made Monday night, it was revealed on a checkup today.

The last attempt, according to Williams, owner of the store, who reported the Sunday night incident for the first time today, was made by a young man, apparently more bold than any of the other six robberies on his store since January. While other robbers raised windows and cut the glass in windows to gain an entrance, the thief Monday night tried to enter the store by using a key on the front door.

Scared Away

The lad, however, did not get a chance to try very many keys in the lock on the door before he was frightened away by R. D. Sellers, who resides across the street from the grocery, when he returned home from work about 12:30 o'clock. When the rubber saw Sellers approaching he fled to his Ford coupe which was parked with the engine running in front of the store, and dashed down the street.

In the excitement, Sellers failed to get the number of the license on the car and also did not get a good glimpse of the driver.

Although Lester Murphy denied that he had anything to do with the robbery Sunday night when only a small loot was obtained. The robber that night, broke the glass in the front door to gain entrance.

The attempt to enter the store Monday night, according to Williams, is one of a series of seven robberies when the thief has not gained entrance and carried away loot from the establishment, since the first of the year.

Take Small Change

The looters were benefited to an extent of between $15 and $20 each time in carrying away pennies from the cash drawer and other merchandise. Williams declares that twice before which he has authentic knowledge of from witnesses, a Ford coupe was used by the thieves to carry the loot and in which to make a get-away.

Murphy, the robber of the store on Friday night, gained entrance to the store by breaking a glass in the front door and turning the lock from the inside. He carried away a revolver and other store merchandise.

Murphy when arraigned for hearing was sentenced to an indefinite term at the Mansfield Reformatory. He was taken to the institution yesterday to start serving his term by the Marion Probation Officer, V. H. Aller. The youth claims his home is in Nelsonville and his record reveals that he has served a term in the Lancaster Reformatory.

By the time the summer temperature goes to 98 one ceases trying to look "dressy."

DENY FIRST REPORT OF ALLEGED KENTON ATTACK

Reports from Kenton today corrected charges made in mayor's court there by Mrs. Mae DeVore, a resident of that city against her brother, James Thompson, 319 Garner av., which resulted in the latter being held to Hardin County Grand Jury under bond fixed at $1,000.

Thompson, according to original reports, struck Mrs. DeVore as she opened the door to admit him to her home. It later developed that he struck her during a heated verbal argument, said to have originated over the care of the pair's mother.

Arraigned before Mayor Herron, Thompson pleaded guilty to assault and battery and was bound over to the grand jury.

HOLD WORKER WHO THREW BROOM, INJURING YOUTH

Shadusky, June 25—Layton Schumacher, 23, railway construction worker, was being held in jail here today for investigation, following the injury of Arther Riddle, 12, who is in Providence Hospital in a critical condition, according to the attending physician.

Police say Schumacher threw a broom at several boys who were playing in the New York Central yards here yesterday and that the handle struck the Riddle boy, fracturing his skull.

DECORATE CITY FOR RECEPTION OF DELEGATES

Gigantic Parade To Be Held on Streets Tuesday Afternoon

Bucyrus, June 25—With the eve of the opening of the state convention of Spanish War Veterans Sunday but one day away, Bucyrus was busy today putting on the finishing touches to its reception plans. The work of decorating the city was expected to be completed today or tonight.

Each home in the city will display an American flag if the request of the local vets organization is observed. Special displays will be installed by business men and already the streets are decorated with pennants and banners.

Ralph H. Carroll, Cleveland, department commander, and John P. Edwards, Columbus, department adjutant of the Spanish War Veterans' organization, were expected in Bucyrus today to arrange for the convention. Each are expected to bring staff members with them.

Plan Parade

Phalia Ideman, Youngstown, department president of the auxiliary to the Spanish War vets, is also expected today with her staff. The local auxiliary organization has made plans for the entertainment of the 400 members of the auxiliary expected at the meeting. A feature of the auxiliary program will be a musical, Tuesday night at the Elks. Regular auxiliary sessions will be held at the Eagles' hall.

William C. Beer, chairman of the parade committee, announced tentative plans for a gigantic parade Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Edward Vollrath, a veteran of both the Spanish and World Wars, will be grand marshal. His aides are Lieutenant Charles McNeal, Lieutenant C. V. Ahl, Lieutenant J. D. Sears and Captain W. A. Keck.

APPOINTED ASSISTANT RECTOR OF ST. MARTIN'S

LaRue, June 25—Rev. Anthony Wolf son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wolf, east of town and who sang his first mass here June 13 has received an appointment from Archbishop John T. McNicholas, Cincinnati, to be assistant rector to Rev. Father Elmo of St. Martin's Church, Brown County, O.

Father Wolf left here yesterday for a few days visit with Father Brinker of Versailles, O., and will take up his new work at St. Martin's this coming Sunday at the Feast of the Sacred Heart.

Four Ohio Short Ship Circuit Drivers Get 30 Days

SPORT SAUCE

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB

THE Marion Ohio Short Ship Circuit harness race meeting is over. Only local horses will remain in Marion barns Monday morning, following the emigration to Akron, where the first of 13 days of racing gets under way today.

Early yesterday morning the movement toward Akron began. It continued all day and got under way again early today. Horses, horsemen, drivers, and followers of the sport emigrated last night, in order to "get set" for the opening banner day at Akron.

The Marion meet was one of the best held here in recent years and with the exception of one flare-up in the 2:07 pace Wednesday, when drivers insisted on taking it slow and easy and received a 30-day suspension for their work everything went off smoothly.

Large crowds witnessed the races although threatening weather Thursday likely spoiled the out-of-town crowds for that day. The best races of the meet were held yesterday when every heat was featured by a neck and neck finish. The 2:13 pace incidentally proved the fastest of the meeting when Ell Direct, owned by Lou Aller of LaRue, pushed to his best by Margaret Todd, made the first heat in 2:10¼.

Officials in charge of the races handled their end of the work perfectly while the Murray's Entertainers never lagged a moment in their entertainment.

It was a great meet but next year's will be still greater if the Sulky City Racing Association has anything to say about it. That orgauisation should be congratulated on its splendid work in promoting the successful program.

THE Chicago Cubs may be unable to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals but Charley Root has the number of the Pittsburgh Pirates. That gentleman allowed the National League leaders only seven hits yesterday while his teammates smacked the pill in all directions. The final score was 4 to 2.

The Cubs meet the Pirates in the second and final game of their series today while the Cards stack up against the Cincy Reds. Should the Cards win the Bucs lose, for the first time since early in the season, two teams will be deadlocked for first position in the National loop.

BARTSCH of the Gardner Tap & Die has as many or more strikeouts to his credit this season than any other pitcher in any recreational ball league. We haven't any perfect statistics available but he has gained a reputation for his ability to place the ball where the best sluggers of the Industrial League can't find it.

Bartsch pulled the surprise of the season the other night when he pitched his team to a victory over the Steam Shovel shops.

DENNISON IS ONLY OHIO HOPE FOR TOURNEY

Youngstown Youth Still Survives in Tennis Meet at Cleveland

Cleveland, June 25—Carl Dennison, 16-year-old Youngstown boy, today was the only Ohio hope left in the fight for the singles title in the Ohio State tennis tourney.

The youth, who entered the tournament "just for the fun of it," expecting to go no further than the first round, yesterday defeated Elliott Stearns, Cleveland, 6-4; 6-3; and was to meet Frank Shields, of New York in the semi finals today at 1:30 p. m. Shields, who is but one year Dennison's senior, was national boy champ in 1925 and will give the lad from Youngstown a hard battle.

FARRELL WINS ANOTHER

Delaware Water Gap, Pa., June 25—Johnny Farrell, Quaker Ridge golfer, has won four open tournaments within the last month. His triumph was the winning of the Eastern open here with a card of 287 for 72 holes. Willie MacFarlane was second, four strokes behind, and Walter Hagen, defending champion, was third with 292. Farrell shot a 69 on the last round.

Judges Suspend Pilots for Slow Driving In 2:07 Pace As Marion Meeting Closes

Cartnall, Fleming, Morrison and McMillen Sentenced; Margaret Todd, Stellerene and Bessie Shaw Winners in Final Races

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB
Sports Editor, The Star

WITH the closing of the Ohio Short Ship Circuit harness race meeting yesterday afternoon at Marion County Fairgrounds came the announcement that four drivers who figured prominently in the local meet had been suspended for 30 days because of slow driving in the 2:07 pace Wednesday afternoon.

The drivers Doc McMillen, Vic Fleming, Morrison and Cartnall, piloting Miss Helen W, Myrtle Baxter, Attico and Jakie O'Connor respectively, made the first mile heat of the 2:07 pace in 2:18¼. Judges declared it no heat. Times for the next two heats was 2:11½ and 2:16¼ respectively, with Jakie O'Connor winning.

The judges, Joe McGraw of Washington, Pa., Dr. N. Sifritt and Charles Mapes, gave a victory to Jakie but reserved their decision in the slow driving until the end of the meet. Mr. McGraw was presiding judge. The sentence becomes effective today. Only four horses were entered in the race.

Margaret Todd Wins

Margaret Todd, piloted by Vic Fleming, the favorite for the 2:13 pace, ran true to form in that event and won the race by taking the last two heats after placing second in the first. Ely Direct, with Pifer up, owned by L. L. Aller, LaRue, won the first heat. He led Margaret Todd in the next two until they hit the stretch—and then it was just too bad for everybody and everything concerned. Under the expert guidance of Fleming, the brown mare won by a nose in each heat. The best time was 2:10¼.

Four heats were necessary to decide the winner in the hotly contested 2:20 trot when By Jolla won the first heat, Miss Marion Toddler took the second, and Bessie Shaw won the third. The two latter horses ran an extra heat to decide first place when By Jolla was distanced in the third heat and forced out of the race. Bessie Shaw won the extra mile, leading the Parshall entry all the way.

Stellerene Cops

Stellerene, another favorite, flashed over the line in front of the field in three straight heats to win the 2:14 trot. Cartnall was the driver. Lightning Flash, with Lamline up, led the way in every heat until the field hit the stretch. Stellerene won every heat by inches, nosing out Lightning Flash at the finish.

The races yesterday afternoon were the best of the meet with the smallest crowd on hand to witness them.

The meet, one of the best in recent years on the local track, was successful in every way. Officials handled the affair in an expert manner. Steve Phillips of Xenia, O., was starter, with presiding judge being Joe McGraw of Washington, Pa. Associate judges were Dr. N. Sifritt and Charles Mapes of this city.

Timers for the meet were O. C. McCurdy and William McCurdy of this city, and Dr. Harry A. Hoopes of LaRue. Bent Sinkey of Richwood, acted as clerk of the course.

NEW GOLF CHAMP

Will Be Crowned In Ohio Amateur Tourney at Dayton Today

Dayton, June 25—A new amateur golf champion of Ohio was to be crowned here late today, when the 36-hole finals match between two youthful players, Densmore Shute, of Columbus, and Sinclair Dean of Lima, is completed.

Shute, continuing the brilliant brand of golf which he displayed from the tee off in the first qualifying round early this week, which made him the medalist, and has consistently kept him in the forefront through the tournament, eliminated V. K. Hilton, Dayton's sole remaining representative, by the lopsided score of 5 and 4, while Dean was being carried to the 18th hole to win over R. W. Lee, another Columbus performer.

Shovel Office Leads Commercial League

BEAT KIWANIS IN FINAL FIRST ROUND BATTLE

Eagles Defeat Stars; Kappas Win; Dairies Are Victors

MARION STEAM SHOVEL OFFICE is in full possession of first place in the Commercial League today as the result of its 20 to 5 triumph over Kiwanis in the final game of the first round last night. Eagles finished the first round of games in second position, trimming the Stars 10 to 0 in the final contest last night.

Kappa Alpha Phis moved into third place out of a former four-way tie as they defeated the Postoffice and Isaly Dairies stepped into a four-way deadlock for fourth place by trouncing the K. of P. aggregation.

None of the games in the Commercial loop were hotly contested last night. Eagles and Shovels had walkways, the Dairies had little trouble with their opponents and Kappas had less with their opposition.

Shovels Win

With Clark on the mound for the Steam Shovel, the Kiwanis were able to connect for a number of hits and earned five runs but Lawson was not capable of holding down the Shovel sluggers and they knocked the ball all over the lot. The game was played on the Steam Shovel diamond.

The Stars were able to gather two hits off Roy Rice in the first inning but went hitless during the remainder of the game with the Eagles while Gibson allowed 11 bingles for 10 runs. The Eagles scored three in the first inning, two more in the third and five additional tallies came in the fifth frame.

Roscoe Rank allowed the Postoffice outfit only four hits while the Kappas were collecting nine off Jim Lingo. The final score was 7 to 2, in favor of the Kappa Alpha Phis. The win put the Kappas in third place.

The K. of P outfit nipped Zuspan for only three hits while the Dairies were winning, 6 to 2. Smallwood, on the mound for the K. of P. team, allowed 10 hits.

BEGINS TRAINING

ATHLETICS PLAY KEYSTONES

HARVARD WINS AS YALE NABS CRAB

New London, Conn., June 25—It was Bill Tilden's demountable knee that got the blame for his dismissal from the throne room. Jack Dempsey, they said, had a trick nose and Gene Tunney mauled it with his fists until Dempsey, the champion, was no more. Then there was the case of Paavo Nurmi, who lost the decision to the now famous veal pot pie.

Yesterday another dynasty fell, that of Ed Leader, super-coach, and this time the blame fell upon the No. 6 oar in his varsity shell. The latter, D. T. Bartholomew, was charged with the heinous crime of catching a crab at the three mile mark and the incident, with its consequent loss of momentum to the leader shell, was deemed to have given Harvard its first victory on the water over Yale in seven years.

NATIONAL LOOP RACE TIGHTENS AS CUBS WIN

Cards, Pirates and Bruins Fighting for League Lead

New York, June 25—The National League race is tighter than a Scotch pawnbroker today as the result of the Cardinals' fifth straight win and Chicago's victory over Pittsburgh. The Pirates now lead the Cards by only one game, while the Red Birds have an edge of no more than a game and a half on the Cubs.

The world's champions nosed out Cincinnati in the eleventh yesterday, 3 to 2, after Bressler's homer with one on had tied the score in the ninth.

Charley Root of the Cubs stopped the Pirates colder than a mackerel, while his mates bunched hits off Meadows to win 4 to 2. The Bugs keenly miss the services of Catcher Earl (K. O.) Smith, who has been fined $500 by Pres. Heydler and suspended for 30 days dating from June 18, when he attacked Manager Bancroft of the Braves. Heydler characterized Smith's action as "a vicious and brutal assault."

Ghosts Win

The Giants drubbed the Phillies, 7 to 3, but made five miscues in the nightcap and lost in the tenth, 6 to 5. Hornsby got his 13th homer. Jackson showed the fans why John McGraw was willing to let Eddie Farrel go by making seven hits.

Brooklyn broke out into a rash of errors and dropped one to Boston, 5 to 3.

Washington trimmed the Red Sox, 5 to 3, and advanced to within two games of Chicago. Hollis Thurston won his own game, driving in three runs with as many hits.

Red Faber took his shower early as the White Sox lost to Detroit, 9 to 4. Tavener got four hits.

Wingard of the Browns won a ten inning pitching duel from Shaute, of Cleveland, 2 to 1.

The Yankees and Athletics were idle.

COLUMBUS NINE SCHEDULED FOR GAME SUNDAY

Marion Outfit Ready for Invaders at Lincoln Park

THE Columbus Keystones will furnish opposition for the Marion Athletics at Lincoln Park, Sunday afternoon.

The game promises plenty of real baseball playing with Marion doing its part. Main has been pitching great ball during the last two weeks while Brashears is all that a catcher should be. The outfield is working perfectly and the infield is going hot. The batting average of the club has taken a sudden jump during the last few weeks and—what else can be expected of any organization.

Winners

The Keystones have won so many games that they have almost forgotten what it means to get a trimming. They have been playing double-headers each Sunday and have two pitchers who know their stuff.

Marion has won five out of its seven contests and at its present pace should not taste defeat again for some time.

The Bisons will play at Agosta Sunday and only one game is scheduled for the local diamond. It will be called at 2:30 o'clock.

SHOVEL HORSESHOE TEAM BEATS BUCYRUS

The Marion Steam Shovel horseshoe team last night defeated Bucyrus 21 out of 36 matches at Bucyrus. It was the first defeat of the season for the Bucyrus aggregation.

Bud Taylor Still World Bantamweight Champion

Chicago, June 25—Bud Taylor is still bantamweight champion of the world.

The only difference in the status of the Terre Haute battler as it existed before his fight last night with Tony Canzoneri of New York, is that Taylor should now be recognized universally as king of the bantams. Heretofore his claims to the title were recognized in only 18 of the states where boxing is legal.

Taylor and his arch rival, Canzoneri clashed for the second time in the ten-round windup of Promoter Jim Mullen's outdoor carnival at Cubs Park here last night. At the conclusion of one of the best fights ever staged in this state, Taylor was awarded the decision.

They got into action with the first tap of the bell. Taylor confused the New Yorker in the first and second rounds with his blaze of speed, fairly raining rights and lefts to Tony's face.

Gets Bearings

But Canzoneri got his bearings in the third and began registering with his right to Taylor's face and body. Tony's spurt continued through the fourth and fifth rounds, but from then on to the final, Taylor swarmed all over the New Yorker.

At the end of the ninth round, Bud seemed to have Tony thoroughly tamed, but the challenger came back strong in the tenth and finished with a burst of speed.

In the 10-round semi-windup, pat on after the main event, Ignacio Fernandez, Filipino, fighting his first bout in the states, surprised with a technical knockout over Abe Attell Goldstein, former bantamweight champion.

Why—Are Dixie Weave Suits So Cool?

Because of the porous airy wool or worsted fabrics.

Why Are Tropical Worsted Dixie Weaves So Stylish?

Because the fabrics hold the style that's tailored into them.

Why Are Hart Schaffner & Marx Dixie Weaves So Economical Here?

Because great volume and specialization raise quality standards and keep prices down. We've done our part by pricing them mighty close to cost.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

BY JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

Feeble is pretty slick. She might have someone shooting the bottles of the Lost Bag of Tripe's soda pop stand. While I was letting Jupiter down by the rope in his teeth I kinda glad that my father had not time to build a soda stand this year. Then when I had got my pants on I was out in the barn milking the horned brutes and talking to the cats. I was gladder yet. For the Lost Bag of Tripe came in and he had a shiner over one eye and a swole lip. Maybe he had not sold out after all.

A little while after we had went and found the Lost Bag of Tripe's mother was putting some dry clothes on his little brother Podgeen Dooley from under the mill came sailing around the corner with his bunch and they were all over each other in a minute, and they tipped the cart over and he collected a couple of bruises, and by the time his mother got to him again he was setting in the middle of ice water where the bottles had been wondering what had happened to them and there wasn't a bottle left, and he said his father is going to have the police hunch arrested and sent to jail for life, and maybe the one that punched him will get hung.

I asted him if he found out what happened the bottles, and he said his father said they must of been two cakes of yeast in them. Yeast is funny stuff. As soon as it gets wet it begins to swell up. A fella can't see it at all in a bottle of pop, but it is there and it keeps swelling up all the time, and sometimes it busts the bottle. When I said that Youniss said to Feeble, when we go to the pasture, Yeast Cake, or will we stay here and take care of Annabelle Lee? And when I went in to feed my face my mother said it was baking day and she wanted me to take care of Annabelle Lee.

Youniss said she would if I would take a pail and me and Maggie and Feeble get some strawberries to eat with some warm bread when we got back, so she did, and we did, and we were certainly sorry for the rest of the bunch when we were eating hot bread and butter and wild strawberries. It was just like shortcake. My mother told them she would ruther I would play with girls than with boys, and she said I would ruther too when I got a little older. I don't think women are so very brite.

"Shall we go to the pasture, Yeast Cake?"

Peter's Adventures

A Story for Boys and Girls

BY FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

WHAT CAME OF CURIOSITY

"WOOF! Woof! Woof! Good thing I took the path by the brook! Something tells me that I am not going to dine on chickens tonight, and here has sent a hearty dinner my way. I'm sure Porcupine is not the easiest thing to catch, but for all his bristles I know how to deal with him. I heard him talking before I came over the top of the hill, but he couldn't have been talking to himself! To whom could he speaking? That is what I want to know!"

It was the voice of Cutie Fox. Peter recognized it in a second, and sure enough now from out the shadows beneath the tree stole his old friend and sharp ears erect and nose pointed to the wind stood there sniffing the breeze. "What's strange!" continued Cutie Fox, muttering to himself. "I smell one and something else, too—a Two-Leggy smell. 'Sniff! But it can't be that—my nose is deceiving me! Why should Two-Legs be rambling in the meadows this time of night? No dog would, though I am sure of that, so I know there is a Two-Legs in the neighborhood I should worry!"

Cutie Fox chuckled when Fox said that, but he heard him, whirling about to face Fox.

"Ouf! What was that?" cried he. He seemed for a moment, but then he held his breath and Fox slowly passed away.

"I must have been mistaken," muttered Cutie. "Maybe, a mouse spied me and sneaked to warn his mate. I've no time for mice now, however. I have business on hand. Hello! Porcupine didn't see any one following me, curious old thing that he is. He has curled himself up and is waiting to see what happens. Puts too much faith in those bristles of his, does! They might scare some folks, but they don't bother me a bit. I have wasted so much time talking to myself that Pork could have gone his way easily, but he hasn't, and now I will have to pay for his foolishness."

Then Cutie Fox and in a few bounds was at Porcupine's side. Peter crept around the rock where he could more plainly see what was going on and he heard Cutie say:

"I have heard that curiosity once killed a cat, but this is the time it is going to be the cause of the sad fate of a Porcupine. Sorry, Porky, but you didn't use good sense and so must expect to suffer."

Peter was going to yell and warn his old friend Fox, but something made him hold his tongue. Perhaps he, too, was curious—curious to see what use Pork would make of his quills. The chap had boasted that they protected him so well. He rather hated to see Fox suffer as he surely would if he went to poking Porcupine and got some of those barbed quills in his nose. But Fox had lived in these parts long enough to know what he was doing. Besides, he was a thief. Serves him right to get pricked! Peter decided to let Fox go his own way. Then he saw Cutie slowly put out one paw and gently push Porcupine. The fellow moved. Fox tried it again—then again, and then again. Peter could scarcely believe his own eyes. Fox was rolling that ball of bristles before him. Where? Straight toward the brook?

Next: "Cutie Fox Outwits the Armored Knight."

OIL STOCKS GIVEN FRESH SETBACK BY PRODUCTION

Speculative Activities Confined to Small Group in Short Session

MARKETS AT A GLANCE
Railroad stocks, firm; industrial stocks, firm; domestic bonds firm; foreign bonds, irregular; grain reactionary; copper, irregular; oil irregular; rubber firm; sugar, steady; foreign exchange, firm.

New York, June 25—Speculative activities in the short session of the stock market today were confined to a small number of the high-priced equipment and industrial stocks in which public interest is negligible. Oils received a fresh set back in the run-away crude oil production and new discoveries in the seminole, while some of the copper stocks continued to reflect the reported shrinkage in current earnings.

The week-end business reviews were favorable, in that they pointed out a good increase in retail buying in sections of the country which have been under the influence of flood depression and declining prices for agricultural products. More seasonable weather has been of great assistance to both the agricultural and the manufacturing districts as well as contributing to the more efficient movement of goods on the railroads.

The grain markets continued their downward movements, corn and wheat each losing a cent a bushel. Italian lire bettered its best previous market record since 1920, when the currency was quoted at 5.83⅝ cents to the lire. Week-end reports on railroad mergers were generally constructive, and the railroad stocks were firm, but inactive.

Baldwin Locomotive pushed upward to 232 in the first period, in a new "demonstration" by the pool in control of the stock. Wall Street reported that a "prominent industrialist," who has frequently been on the wrong side of the market, is at present heavily short of Baldwin, and not disposed to cover to the demands of the pool. The same interests are said to be short of General Motors, which stocks has also resisted strong efforts to break the price, much below 200 in recent weeks.

Because of the "sold out" condition of the oil stocks, selling pressure on this group failed to make very much impression, though fractional declines to the year's low prices were made by Sarland, Snell Union and Skelly. The Standard oils, both on the curb and the big board, were firm, with vacuum advancing to the high price of the year. Refiners which purchase their crude oil, rather than produce it from their own wells, have little to worry about in the current sharp drop in crude oil prices.

JOINT COUNTY ROAD PLANS ARE APPROVED

Commissioners To Hold Separate Sessions for Assessment Fixing

Plans, specifications and estimates for improvement of the county line road extending east and west between Marion and Crawford counties were approved by commissioners of the two counties at a meeting held here yesterday afternoon and arrangements were made for proceeding with fixing of assessments.

The two boards will hold separate meetings to fix assessments on the land in their respective counties and after this is done another joint meeting will be called to set the date for receiving bids and awarding of the contract. It is expected that arrangements for letting the contract will be completed early in July, so that it may be possible to start the work and possibly push it through this year.

The improvement will extend a distance of 3.6 miles between the Marion-Bucyrus-pk and Columbus I. C. R. No. 4, known as the mud pike, which is the boundary line between the two counties. The pavement will be of portland cement, 22 feet in width, [illegible] the cost of estimated at $[illegible]

FIRE

YOUTH KILLED, ANOTHER HURT IN PLANE FALL

Princeton Graduate, Flying Home, Crashes; Likely To Recover, It Is Said

Pottsville, Pa., June 25 Unless unusual injuries are discovered George T. Lambert, son of the owner of the Lambert Chemical Co., St. Louis will be able to leave the local hospital in a day or two, his physicians announced today. Young Lambert was hurt and his cousin, James I. Walker, also of St. Louis, was killed yesterday when their airplane crashed.

Walker, a passenger in the plane piloted by Lambert, recently came into an estate valued at $5,000,000. The youths were graduated from Princeton University on June 21, and were flying from Princeton to St. Louis when their plane crashed.

The two-seater biplane went into a tailspin when Lambert tried to make an emergency landing. It was wrecked and partly buried in mud. Walker was dragged from the plane unconscious and died enroute to a hospital. His left arm, face and head were crushed.

Lambert intended to fly as far as the Bellefonte, Pa., air mail field yesterday afternoon, play golf at a nearby country club and continue the flight today. He purchased the ill-fated plane for a Philadelphia concern six months ago.

GIRL HIT BY LAMBERT PLANE PRAYS FOR HIM

New York, June 25.—A little 12 year old Brooklyn girl prayed today for the recovery of George L. Lambert, Princeton student who was seriously injured when his airplane crashed at Potts Ile, Pa., resulting in the death of James T. Walker, his cousin and classmate and heir to a $5,000,000 fortune.

The girl is Lillian Chernow. She was released from a hospital only two days ago after receiving treatment for injuries sustained when the same airplane struck her on June 8 as Lambert was attempting a take-off after being forced down by lack of fuel in a vacant lot in Brooklyn.

With a crowd of other children, Lillian was watching Lambert's plane get under way, when it suddenly veered sideways, the wing tip striking the little girl, just before the machine rose.

K. OF C. REUNION

Three Thousand Expected at Cedar Point Gathering Next Week

Cedar Point, June 25.—Cedar Point headquarters were advised today by the committee in charge of arrangements, that the reunion and outing of Ohio, Knights of Columbus to be held here next week, will bring together at least 3,000 persons.

The meet is to begin Sunday morning following special masses in Sandusky's three Catholic Churches, and continue up to and including Friday night.

The largest delegations will come from Toledo, Columbus, Springfield and Tiffin, according to convention headquarters.

TO MEET LAND OWNERS

Mt. Gilead, June 25.—The commissioners and Grover Snyder, state highway director, will meet with the abutting land owners on the Mt. Gilead-Mt. Vernon-rd at 8:00 Wednesday night, June 29, at Chesterville. The road is No. 333 of Inter-County Highways, Sec. "H."

TO OBSERVE CHILDREN'S DAY

Cardington, June 25.—The Children's Day program of the M. P. Sunday School will be given Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. Baptism of children and adults will be administered at the morning service.

FREE RIDERS AS NUMEROUS AS EVER, CLAIM

Railroads Making Every Effort To Rid Trains of "Knights of the Road"

In spite of the efforts of local railroad detectives and railroad employes to rid the train of "free riders" as many "deadheads" are found on the local trains now, as in any time in the history of railroad transportation in Marion, officials at the Union Depot declare.

Whenever a freight train has occasion to stop in Marion for loading or unloading or waiting for signals, local detectives and employes of that road make a hurried search of the cars and rout out the hoboes and other traveling "gentlemen" by gentle means or otherwise.

The train riders are not so easily subdued, however, and before the train pulls out of the city, nearly all of the "riders" who were shoved off of the train, again find their former places which assures them conveyance at least to the next town.

"Bill" Drake, telegraph operator at the Union Depot, declares that it is a common occurrance to note 10 or 12 "deadheads" on each train which passes his office at the intersection of the Hocking Valley and Erie tracks.

A total of 17 "riders" were noted on a test train of the Hocking Valley which passed through Marion at 1 o'clock, yesterday afternoon. The train left Columbus where the "passengers" were picked up and was enroute to Eldridge, O.

Anniversary Observed

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the "Twentieth Century" Limited of the New York Central Railroad with a run between New York and Chicago, was observed by the company June 15.

The first trip of the now famous train was made from New York to Chicago in 1902.

Special Train

A special train bearing members of the Alladin Shrine of Columbus, passed through Marion at 10:45 yesterday morning enroute back to Columbus after attending the annual shrine convention at Atlantic City.

The train, which consisted of 14 Pullman cars, left Columbus with the Shrine lodge, two weeks ago. On the return trip the train passed through Boston into Canada and passed through Detroit before wending its way back to Columbus.

Changes Made

Numerous changes in the officials of the Western Region of the Pennsylvania Railroad in which Marion is included, were made at a meeting of the directors in Philadelphia recently.

W. C. Higginbottom, superintendent of the Philadelphia Division of the Pennsylvania, was appointed to the position formerly held by F. D. Davis, as general superintendent of the transportation of the Western Region. Davis was transferred to Buffalo, N. Y., where he succeeds R. C. Morse as general superintendent of the Northern Division. Mr. Morse was moved to New Jersey as the general superintendent there.

R. K. Rochester, present general superintendent of the New Jersey division, was promoted to the position of assistant general manager of the Eastern Division. He is well known in the Western Division.

P. W. Sullivan, superinendent of the Columbus Division, was appointed superintendent of the Eastern Division with headquarters at Pittsburgh. He succeeded Porter Allen, who was promoted to chief engineer of the Western Region, June 1.

All of the new appointments of the Western Region are now in effect.

One Excursion

The Pennsylvania Railroad will run the only excursion out of Marion this Sunday. The special train for Cedar Point will stop for passengers in this city at 7:56 Sunday morning. Arrival at Sandusky will be at 10:15 a. m. and the return trip will start from the lake city at 6 o'clock Sunday night.

Test Train

A test train of the Hocking Valley railroad with engine No. 140, passed through Marion at 1 o'clock, yesterday afternoon. A Westinghouse dynamometer was installed in a car at the rear of the tender to test the engine.

Superintendent Here

C. S. Jackson, superintendent of the motive power of the Erie Railroad, with offices in New York, was in Marion on business, yesterday and Thursday.

Visits in Marion

D. C. Depew, mechanical superintendent of the Erie at Youngstown, was a visitor in the Marion offices of the Erie, yesterday.

PROSPECT GRADUATES HOLD CLASS PICNIC

Prospect, June 25—The Senior Class of 1927, Prospect High School, held a picnic Wednesday afternoon, at the Old Mill below Stratford. A picnic supper was enjoyed and afterwards the group attended the theater at Delaware. Guests of the class were Miss Mildred McKeever of Marion, Miss Oma Wells, Carol Saum and Claire Keller.

RETURN FROM TOUR

Mt. Gilead, June 25—F. L. Meyers, Henry Talmadge and Stuart Peters returned Thursday night from a two week tour as players in the shrine band. They played saxaphone, cornet and French horn respectively. The tour included Atlantic City, New York, Boston, Montreal and Quebec.

FACE NON-SUPPORT CHARGES

Bucyrus, June 25—Warren Kirk and Ray W. Coy, both of Bucyrus, were arrested Thursday and will face charges of non-support. The men were secretly indicted by the last grand jury. Kirk was arrested at Marion and Coy in Bucyrus.

The French call an umbrella a Robinson after Robinson Crusoe.

FILES COURT PETITION FOR AID OF EXECUTION

Harvey Hershner Names A. J. Hershner, Lexington Bank, E. H. Blair in Suit

Mt. Gilead, June 25.—Harvey Hershner filed a petition in an action for aid of execution against A. J. Hershner and the Lexington Savings Bank and E. H. Blair, superintendent of banks. The plaintiff claims that judgment was rendered for $500 to Hazel Hershner from the defendant and that, for consideration, the title of the judgment has passed into his hands but has not been paid. He claims that the defendant does not have sufficient property to satisfy this judgment but he has on deposit in the Lexington Savings Bank a certain amount of money, the exact figure of which he does not know. This bank has been turned over to E. H. Blair to dispose of the deposits to the creditors and the plaintiff asks that Blair be ordered to file an answer stating the amount there on deposit and further asks that this amount be used to satisfy the judgment. T. B. Mather is the attorney for the plaintiff.

CRISWELL SERVICES HELD AT MT. GILEAD

Mt. Gilead, June 25—Funeral services for the late J. C. Criswell were held yesterday at 4 p. m. at the Criswell home. The Knights Templar were in charge of the funeral, Commander Franklin O. Tuttle of the Marion Commandery, No. 36, was in charge of the services which were conducted in regular Knights Templar form. Roy D. Zachman, also of the Marion Commandery, offered prayer. I. B. White of Mt. Gilead read the obituary. After the services at the home, the funeral procession drove to Bryn Zion where interment was made. A short service was held at the grave. About 15 Marion persons attended the funeral.

ENTERTAIN IN HONOR OF DAUGHTER'S BIRTHDAY

Iberia, June 25—Mr. and Mrs. Carl Grimes entertained a number of friends and neighbors at their country home two miles north of Iberia, Wednesday night, in honor of their daughter, Ina Marie, who was celebrating her sixteenth birthday. It was a surprise party. There were 17 guests present. The time was enjoyed socially and with games. A pot luck supper was served. A birthday cake occupied the center of the table.

The persons present were Mr. and Mrs. Julius Shumaker of Martel, Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Cress, Mr. and Mrs. Ted McClarren, Mr. and Mrs. John Hubbard, Mrs. Frank Burnison, Ralph Reed, James Cress, Murriul, Gerald and Harlo Shumaker of Martel, Charles Hubbard, Miss Grace Ness and Louis McClarren. The supper was served in cafeteria style.

BELLING PARTY PARADES NEWLYWEDS IN TRUCK

Mt. Gilead, June 25—An all tinned belling party from Galion, where the bridegroom is employed, cut short a neighborly shower for Mr. and Mrs. Marion Martin last night. Mrs. Martin was formerly Dorothy Buck. Nearly all the neighbors of the Bucks were present with many gifts.

The bellers consisted of 30 fellow workers of Mr. Martin. Bringing as their chariot a speed truck, the party arrived at the Buck home shortly before 9 o'clock. The couple made no resistance but climbed peacefully on the rear of the truck. The tour included Mt. Gilead and Cardington.

The couple have just returned from their wedding trip from Washington, D. C. They expect to live in Galion.

Do you know that—only 9 men out of every 100 ever succeed in accumulating as much as $5,000?

Think of it—in America, the richest country in the world, 90 out of every 100 men are dependent at the age of 65 on the charity of relatives or the public.

Fits is even more amazing when we realize that—the majority of men and women have sufficient earning power to make themselves financially independent.

Why, then, are 90 out of every 100 men failures? BECAUSE they overlook the fact that it is not what they earn but what their money earns that will make them financially independent.

To build an independent income you must follow a definite plan in managing the money you earn.

Flagstone and Slatestone Floors

—Strikingly Different and Distinctive

These exclusive new Blabon reproductions strike an entirely different note in Linoleum design and they meet with instant popularity wherever shown. They resemble beautiful natural stone, in variations of tones, with stone-texture and weather-stains faithfully reproduced.

And like all other floors of Blabon's Inlaid Linoleum, they are noted for the superiority of their wear-resisting qualities, beauty of finish and ease with which they can be cleaned.

Come in and see the new Flagstone, Slatestone and other attractive Blabon patterns in our Floor-Covering Department.
